LIMA IS MENTIONED IN DAUGHERTY PROBE

OIL BARON REFUSES TO TAKE STAND

Sinclair Issues Statement
After Leaving Committee
—Awaits Court Action

DONATED $75,000

Will Hays Reveals Facts
When Questioned—
Upham Is Called

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Events in the oil inquiry moved again Saturday with dramatic swiftness.

Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, refused point blank to answer any more questions put by the senate investigating committee, who certified the facts to the senate with a view to contempt proceedings.

Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, testified that at his solicitation Sinclair had agreed to contribute $75,000 to help wipe out the $1,000,000 deficit of the committee after the 1920 campaign.

A subpoena was issued for Fred W. Upham, of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican committee, requiring him to bring to Washington all records of the committee bearing on any and all campaign contributions received from Sinclair.

LONG STATEMENT ISSUED
After refusing to answer ten specific questions put to him on the witness stand, Sinclair upon leaving the committee room issued an eight page statement in which he attacked Theodore and Archie Roosevelt and others who have testified before the committee.

At the outset Hays denied a story that Sinclair had contributed $75,000 to the Republican committee, but said that the committee was welcome to examine his private records of that transaction.

That he and his brother, Hinkle Hays, had had a "purely personal" transaction in bonds with Sinclair and that the committee was welcome to examine his private records of that transaction.

That while he was postmaster general in the Harding administration the law firm of Hays and Hays, of Sullivan, Ind., of which his brother was a member, was counsel for Sinclair in Indiana.

That no stock of any kind was used as security for loans to the Republican national committee, at least while he was chairman.

That the naval oil leases never were discussed at any meeting of the cabinet at which he was present.

That he had no knowledge while he was in the cabinet of any executive order transferring the naval oil reserves from the jurisdiction of the navy department to that of the interior department.

That he said he asked Sinclair to contribute toward wiping out the committee deficit in 1923, more than a year after he left the cabinet. This was about a year after Sinclair obtained the lease of Teapot Dome.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY
After being directed by unanimous vote of the committee to take the witness stand for the sixth time, Sinclair announced his refusal to submit to further questioning in a long prepared statement which he read into the record.

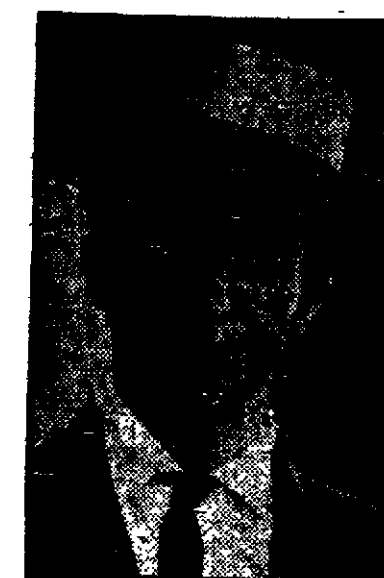

"I do not decline to answer any question upon the ground that it would tend to incriminate me," Sinclair said at the outset, "because there is nothing in any of the facts or circumstances of the lease of Teapot Dome which does or can incriminate me."

Repeating that he already had been before the committee on five different occasions, the oil magnate refused many of the facts of the case presented to the committee yesterday by his counsel in urging that he be excused from further testimony to examine him. He then concluded with this declaration:

"You and the body from which I derive your authority have all failed in judgment on these questions and remitted them to the courts of proper jurisdiction. I will reserve any evidence I may be able to give for those courts to which you and your colleagues have so liberally referred all questions which you had any jurisdiction to answer. I respectfully decline to answer any questions propounded by your committee."

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the committee "prosecutor" then put a question on him.

CALL EX-BANDIT IN OIL PROBE

AL JENNINGS

LOS ANGELES — (Associated Press)—Al Jennings, evangelist, politician, real estate dealer and ex-bandit, left for Washington today to tell what he says he knows about a $1,000,000 payment of "money" that he claims bought the Republican presidential nomination for President W. G. Harding in 1920.

Jennings is going in response to a subpoena to appear before the senate committee investigating oil matters.

BOAT COLLISION CAUSES PANIC

Heavy Damage Results From Accident at New York

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—A collision between the Olympic, fourth largest liner afloat, and the Furness-Bermuda steamer Fort St. George in the Hudson river today, caused a momentary panic among 1,440 passengers on both vessels and several hundred people on the White Star line pier, wrought damage estimated at $150,000 to the Bermuda boat, and delayed the larger liner an hour.

The Olympic, outbound for England with 1,170 passengers was turning downstream when her massive stern struck the Fort St. George, also outbound with 270 passengers.

The main mast and a large hydraulic derrick on the smaller vessel snapped. Fifteen feet of railing was crushed; a lifeboat, the wireless apparatus and the roof of the main deck smoke room were smashed, but the vessel was able to put back under her own steam to her pier.

White Star line officials inspected the Olympic immediately after the crash and again when she had reached the lower bay. On discovering that the damage had been slight, they permitted the vessel to proceed.

Furness-Bermuda line officials recalled by wireless the Royal Mail steam packet liner Arcadian, which had sailed a few minutes before the Fort St. George, and transferred to her most of the vessel's passengers.

Three persons on the Fort St. George were slightly injured.

BAN ON FIREARMS

Coolidge Issues Proclamation as Result of Trouble

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—A proclamation prohibiting the exportation of arms or munitions of war to Honduras was issued by President Coolidge tonight.

The action was taken under authority of a joint resolution of congress of January 31, 1922 and the proclamation recited that the step was required because of conditions of domestic violence in Honduras which are or may be influenced by use of arms or munitions of war procured in the United States.

ANDREWS RESIGNS
NEW YORK—Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, retired, who commanded the 172nd infantry brigade of the eighty-sixth division in the world war, has resigned from the American Legion, as a protest against the adoption of the bonus bill by the house of representatives.

PICKETS ARRESTED
CHICAGO—Two university students, members of a group including several co-eds, who joined striking garment workers in picketing were arrested by the police today on charges of disorderly conduct. The students said they were members of the university liberal club, which has been informed that strikers were being mistreated by police and decided to sing out for themselves.

CIGAR STOCK IN SMITH'S STRONG BOX

WOMAN ON STAND

Tells Startling Story of Intrigue and Politician
Maneuvering

Lima Saturday came in for its first mention in any of the sensational investigations in Washington. This was in connection with stocks held in a safety deposit box held by Jess W. Smith, "bumper and friend" of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general.

A telegram was read to the senate committee investigating Daugherty to the effect that Smith held $45,000 worth of stock of a Lima cigar factory in his strong box. This is stock of the Deisel-Wemmer Co.

Alfred Wemmer, member of the firm, said last night that Smith's father was a salesman for the company and one of the original stockholders in the company. He said Jess Smith inherited the stock from his father and has held it ever since.

Wemmer did not know the exact amount of stock held by Smith. He said there was no secrecy about the ownership of this stock and that it in no way figures in any transactions in which Smith or the attorney general may have been involved.

MISS STINSON TELLS STORY

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Roxie Stinson today gave the Daugherty investigating committee another long chapter of her amazing story, including a description of a "deal" at the 1920 Republican convention to nominate Harding, and details of more whisky "deals" in which she said Attorney General Daugherty was an influential factor.

She also struck back at Daugherty for his charges that she had attempted to blackmail him as a price for her silence and had registered at a Cleveland hotel with a man named A. L. Fink. Both charges constitute a "beautiful frameup" Miss Stinson declared in a sobbing statement of vehement denials and lengthy explanations.

The "convention deal" she said, was related often to her by the late Jess Smith, her divorced husband and constant companion of Daugherty. She said she was told of a promise of a cabinet position to Jake Hamon, former Oklahoma millionaire oil operator, and of "strongarm" methods by Daugherty in the famous early morning conference of Republican leaders at Chicago when they got behind Mr. Harding for the nomination.

No specific whisky "deals" were cited by Miss Stinson, but she said Smith had told of them and had said that Daugherty's "influence" was vital to their success.

LABORED UNDER FEAR
Questions as to how Jess Smith actually met his death, a year ago in the attorney general's apartment—heretofore accepted and certified officially as a suicide—also were a dramatic feature of the three hours Miss Stinson was on the stand. Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, in charge of the inquiry, asked many questions regarding the appearance of the dead man's body, the absence of powder burns, which Miss Stinson testified to and the "fear" which she said Smith had been laboring under.

A number of letters written by Smith to Miss Stinson were produced and read. There were a few indefinite references to "deals" but none were identified definitely. Only a small part of the letters were reached today and the witness will continue that phase of her testimony Monday and also will face the ordeal of cross-examination.

The name of Howard Mannington was again brought into the picture by Miss Stinson, who related conferences at "the little green house" in K. street" where, she said Smith told her that Mannington, Daugherty, and others held important conferences. She said Smith named Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Postmaster General Newlands among the frequenters of the famous place. Mannington has been charged by other witnesses with receiving thousands of dollars in the Dempsey-Carpenter fight film case and New York whisky deals. The

Justice Pauses As Court Hears Wedding Bells

Trial of two accused bootleggers was interrupted in probate court Saturday while the witnesses, court and spectators flocked into an adjoining office to see a wedding performed.

The martial couple were Arthur R. Miller, 24, machinist, Spencer-ville and Betty Inez Quay, 28, nurse, also of Spencer-ville.

Justice of Peace E. M. Botkin, performed the ceremony, in the license bureau office which was converted into a wedding bower for the purpose.

LONE THUG FLEES POLICE POSSE

J. R. Cuthbert Answers Holdup
Demand With Revolver Bullet

Only a few hours after police had arrested eight people following the holdup of a Madison-av grocery store and placed charges of highway robbery against them an unidentified thug invaded the exclusive west end residence district.

As J. R. Cuthbert, chemist, 831 W. Market-st, was placing his automobile in the garage early Sunday morning the bandit appeared behind a fence and commanded him to "stick them up."

Cuthbert replied with a bullet from his revolver and the thug fled down the alley. Police were notified at once by Mrs. F. T. Cuthbert, his mother, and started a thorough search of the entire neighborhood.

Search of the entire district proved unavailing, however, the bandit having made good his escape thru alleys and across residence properties.

MAN WHO HELD VERDUN IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM

PARIS — (Associated Press)—General Robert George Nivelle died Saturday of pneumonia.

General Nivelle was the man who held Verdun, a pivotal point in the world war, against the Germans notwithstanding that they made of it a perfect inferno with their rains of shot and shell. He was 67 years old.

Until a few days ago the defender of Verdun, whose praises in the defense of that city have been sung throughout the world, apparently had been in good health. Prior to the German attack he had been considered merely "an officer" or artillery in the French army.

CRABBE TO TALK TO ROTARIANS

Prohibition Enforcement Probable
Subject For Discussion

Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, who has been in the public eye considerably during the last couple weeks will be in Lima Monday.

The state's legal adviser is coming here to speak before the Lima Rotary club at its weekly luncheon and business meeting in Hotel Norval.

Crabbe has not announced his subject other than to let it be understood he will not talk politics and to intimate it will have some connection with his work.

With the attorney general's office the subject of widespread discussion due to the recent agitation over methods of prohibition enforcement, considerable interest has been aroused over Crabbe's coming visit here.

Speculation is rife as to whether the attorney general may have something further to say about operations of so called "card men" and the coming investigation of conditions in Lucas-co, regarding which Federal Judge John M. Killits a few days ago issued a scathing arraignment.

Crabbe has ruled that operation of "card men" under the state enforcement act which he helped to write is unlawful and has indicated he will be present at the start of the Lucas-co inquiry.

It is possible that during his talk here Monday, Crabbe will elaborate on his views regarding "card men," law enforcement tactics in general and prohibition agents in particular.

Members of the Rotary club, realizing the unusual interest attached to an address by Crabbe at this time, have issued invitations to their attorney friends in and near Lima and as a result Monday's meeting is expected to attract an unusually large and interested audience.

Associate membership in the association costs one dollar, while active membership costs $5. Dr. Peirce said.

Mrs. S. M. Williams, who has charge of the drive, will begin to organize teams soon.

LIMA INDUSTRIES KEEPING BUSY

Smaller Plants Keeping Pace
With Locomotive Works

FOREIGN ORDERS RECEIVED

Twenty-Seven Building Permits
Total $57,000 in Week

Industrial and construction work proceeds apace in Lima.

With 27 new permits adding nearly $60,000 during the past week to the quarter million dollar building program, with the Lima Locomotive Works having announced recently receipt of more large orders and other industries working at or near capacity an unusually busy winter is giving way to a spring which, it is indicated, will be equally as busy.

A survey of local conditions made Saturday by The Lima News shows other industries keeping up with the pace set by the city's major industry, the locomotive works, NEW BUILDING

Included in the expansion schedule of the Vapo Stone Co. for this year is the erection of an addition to the present plant of a building 60 by 100 feet to house the sheet metal department. This new wing will be erected at a cost of $10,000 to the company, according to J. B. Kaufman, president.

Their new Japanese department will also be installed. Hitherto this work was not done in the home plant.

Orders for 600 stoves are now on hand, many of these being from Cuba and Porto Rico. With the opening of the new addition about 25 men will be added to the force.

Vapo oil ranges and hot water heaters with a patented wickless burner which converts kerosene into gas and burns without smoke, soot or odor, are at present the chief manufactures of the company.

Great shipments during the past few weeks have been made by the Garford Motor Truck Co. Sixty orders from England, New South Wales, the East Indies and other foreign countries are now on hand, with many more impending.

FOREIGN ORDERS
The Gram-Bernstein Co. reports a recent shipment of 20 with new orders on hand for as many received from foreign countries.

The Buckeye Machine Co. has declared a quarterly dividend of one and three-fourths per cent on their preferred stock, to be paid April 1. This quarterly dividend has been declared regularly for the past seven years.

A great number of men are being taken on at the plant. Several large orders have been filled during the past month and a great many more are on file.

Orders for several thousand bodies are waiting to be filled at the Lima Sheet Metal Co. and indications point toward a great increase in the force soon.

Conditions are good at the several plants of the Deisel-Wemmer Co. and prospects for a material increase in the working force of each factory are good.

Orders have been received from the Ohio Steel Foundry for a large number of castings.

BUILDING PERMITS
Twenty-seven building permits involving a total expenditure of $57,540 were granted by the city during the past week. On Saturday two permits were issued one of which was to Dr. A. B. Bice of N. Elizabeth-st for the remodeling of his office at a cost of $2,000. Following are some of the permits issued:

John Chantz, 727 N. Elizabeth-st, to remodel a house at a cost of $2,000.

P. S. Early of Kibby-st, to build

Robbery of a Lima grocery store early Saturday evening was followed by the arrest of eight persons, six of whom are charged with highway robbery.

These arrests, police declare, mean the breaking up of a gang of holdup men who have been robbing Lima stores and "sticking up" pedestrians for the past several weeks.

Included in the eight persons arrested is a man who police believe is the chief. This man, according to Chief Lanker's theory, is none other than the "dark mystery bandit" described by several holdup victims—and he's not a colored man.

It was following the holdup and robbery of Ray E. Herrett's grocery store at 323 Madison-av about 8 p. m. that the roundup began and resulted in the arrest of the following persons:

EIGHT HELD
Jack Wolfe, 26, acetylene welder, of 1059 S. Main-st, held in county jail on a charge of highway robbery.

Edward Barnett, 44, of R. F. D. 5, Spencer-ville, held in city jail charged with highway robbery.

Paul Barnett, 20, son of Edward, 302 N. Park-st, held in city jail charged with highway robbery.

Emmett Felver, 28, of 799 S. Union-st, held in county jail charged with highway robbery.

Gilbert Munson, 26, of 303 N. Park-av, and late of Muncie, Ind., held in city jail charged with highway robbery.

H. D. Rogers, 26, of 303 N. Park-av, held in city jail charged with highway robbery.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Siemen, 24, of 303 N. Park-av, held on suspicion.

That Wolfe is the leader and brains of the gang is the contention of police who assert they have procured confessions from Wolfe and several of the others.

That the $200 loot taken from the Herrett store earlier in the evening is contained in the money found on the prisoners is also a contention of police, who point out that more than $185 was found on four of them, while a fifth gave up $50 more.

ASKS FOR FEES
"Give me a can of beans," said an unmarked stranger who appeared at the Barnett store when it was closed save for Roland Drubhot, clerk. The clerk reached up for the can, turned his head and looked into the muzzle of a revolver held by the stranger. Just then another man walked in, stepped behind the counter and reached into the cash register.

Herrett walked into the store from the living quarters in the rear. "Stick up your hands or I'll drill you," commanded the man with the gun. Herrett put them up.

As the confederate stuffed the loot into his pocket and with the first intruder's gun covering the retreat, the pair backed out the door.

Herrett grabbed a gun and Drugnot the telephone. Herrett ran to the street and chased the pair to Michael-av, always about a block in the rear. At the corner of Michael-av he lost sight of them and returned to the store.

POLICE ARRIVE
In a few minutes police arrived in response to the clerk's call. They got a description of the men and the victims' suspicion. Chief Lanker asserted coincided with his own.

While other police combed the vicinity of the robbery Chief Lanker and Inspector Kipker started on a hunt for the object of their suspicions. They went to Wolfe's home, 1059 S. Main-st and waited for him. He saw the officers before he got in and bolted. But each of the officers went out separate ways and found Wolfe in an outbuilding where he surrendered without trouble.

Search of Wolfe's home resulted in discovery, police say of a pair of brown kid gloves, two brown wrist bands, a .38 caliber revolver and holster, 25 caliber revolver, leather leggings, khaki trousers,

LEGAL SNAG HITS DEPORTATION

Prosecutor Sees Obstacle In Way Of County's Proposal

DOGOSTINO TO FIGHT CASE

Prisoner Is Habitual Breaker Of Law, Officials Say

Efforts of county authorities to deport Sam Dogostino, 35, 112 E. Fourth-st., to his native Italy, Sunday, as a habitual law breaker, may meet with an unexpected snag in the form of residence provisions.

Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott, to whom the matter was referred Saturday, is of the opinion that if Dogostino has resided in the United States for 11 years, as claimed, he cannot be sent back.

PREVIOUS EFFORT
Several years ago Lippincott made an active effort to deport an Italian known as "Big Jim" Taribini, convicted on charge of carrying concealed weapons. He found that the immigration authorities were unable to act in the matter because the man had been in the United States more than seven years.

Dogostino was arrested at his home Friday by deputy sheriffs and state prohibition officers who found more than two gallons of alleged corn whiskey.

Mary Dogostino, 55, his wife, was arrested Saturday, charged with possession of whiskey.

Dogostino pleaded guilty in probate court and is held under $2,000 bond, sentence being deferred by Judge J. H. Hamilton, in order to investigate the possibilities of ordering him transported to Italy. He has been arrested at least three times for violation of the liquor laws, the court was informed.

Mary Dogostino pleaded not guilty Saturday and was held on $1,000 bond to appear at trial Wednesday. Bond was signed for release of the two by Virginia Rinalde, wife of Andy Rinalde, 136 E. Fourth-st.; and Al Meo, grocer, 305 S. Main-st.

PLACE SEARCHED

Rinalde's place was searched by officers Friday, but only wine was found. He was recently released from Dayton workhouse where he served five months sentence imposed in federal court for violation of the national prohibition act.

The house was formerly owned by Ross Carbone, blackhand leader, who is a fugitive from justice in connection with an attempt to extort $25,000 from Clement Naum, Bulgarian grocer, 1219 S. Main-st. Ross Carbone, convicted for writing the threatening letters, jumped her bond.

Dogostino told Judge Hamilton that he had never tried to take out naturalization papers, nor did he care to, he said. He made a similar statement to Deputies C. A. Smith and Sam Osburn, when they arrested him.

Officers swept thru the south side Friday afternoon and night raiding suspected places both north and south of the Erie railroad. In all more than eight houses were searched. Paraffin stills were found in several houses along with bottles and jugs believed to have recently contained whiskey.

Dogostino may be turned over to federal authorities in case deportation proceedings are fruitless.

8 ARE ARRESTED IN CLEANUP

Leather coat, brown raincoat, one blue handkerchief and one dirty white handkerchief, each folded in the form of a mask.

Taking Wolfe to police station, police say, they grilled him and confronted him with the evidence they claimed they had against him and procured a partial confession.

Asking Wolfe who the others were Wolfe replied, "You know who they are" Lanker reports. Lanker thought he did and took a squad in search.

Lanker, Inspectors Strick and Kipker and Lieutenants Hargrove, Godfrey, Mills and Brennan Watkins went to 703 Park-av. They found Mr. and Mrs. Starn leaving the house as they arrived and nabbed them on suspicion. The couple disclaimed any connection with robberies and maintained they had procured rooms there only Saturday morning.

FOUR MORE TAKEN.

Entering the house the police found Edward Barnett Felver, Munson and Rogers, whom they arrested. At police station $145.86 was found on the four. Later Felver accompanied police back home and got $50 more from his wife and turned it over to the officers, the latter assert Paul Barnett was taken later at 127 N. Jackson-st.

In commenting on the roundup Saturday night Chief Lanker said he had had Wolfe under surveillance for several weeks but had never been able to get anything on him. His theory is that Wolfe is the gang leader and that he and Felver entered the Herrett store while the others were on guard at various places in the neighborhood.

Lanker believes the same gang has held up various stores and pedestrians, sometimes together and sometimes alone, the various members taking various parts at different times.

Wolfe, Lanker says, is none other than the "colored bandit." His theory is that Wolfe, who is employed at the Locomotive Works, has been going home from work and then entering on his robbery expedition without washing, the dirt on his face giving impression at night that he was colored. He added to this impression by donning the dark colored gloves and wrist bands. His raincoat, Lanker points out, tallies with that always worn by the mysterious alleged colored bandit.

A drive to place the membership of the Lima Automobile club over the $2,000 mark, has been launched, it was announced Saturday. Frank Sherman, Jenkins-av., membership secretary, will have charge of the new members.

WAGNER RECORDS FOUND IN JUNK DEALERS' HANDS

Creditors of the firm of E. W. Wagner & Co. brokers who maintained an office here prior to bankruptcy proceedings, were interested in the announcement that records of the company have been discovered in the hands of junk dealers in New York City. The records, which may reveal important details, have been turned over to the Wagner Asset Realization Co. of Chicago.

LIMA MENTIONED IN PROBE

committee members said today they had assurances he would come from Paris to testify.

HEARD DEAL DISCUSSED
The Chicago convention matter was taken up with Miss Stinson by Senator Wheeler and she said she had heard "the whole deal discussed from beginning to end" and that Jake Hamon himself had asked if it was her.

When Hamon visited Smith and Daugherty at Washington Court House, Miss Stinson said, "You know it is understood I am to have a cabinet position."

"Jess had also told me that that was the plan," Miss Stinson added. "Neither one knew of the other having told me."

"What did they say that Daugherty had to do with that?" she was asked and the reply was:

"That was all slated, that he was to be attorney general."

Asked what Daugherty had to do with Hamon's alleged selection, Miss Stinson continued:

"At this Chicago convention, Jake Hamon did not go as a delegate for Harding from Oklahoma but thru friends and personally and strong-armedness and doggedness, Mr. Daugherty did this for Harding, and it was in some way they got Jake Hamon on his side and some other people. Mr. Daugherty had the courage to go into this private conference at 2 o'clock in the morning, which settled the affair, absolutely that Harding was to be presented as the dark horse."

"The way Mr. Daugherty expressed it, that he got word or understood they were going to do this and took his nerve in his hand and went into this secret conference. Anyway the deal was made and that was at 2:30 o'clock in the morning. Smith was not in the secret conference. He could not go there, Mr. Daugherty was."

WITNESS WEEPS OFTEN.

Often today, especially when replying to Daugherty's charges, Miss Stinson broke down entirely. Tears streamed down her face as she sobbed her replies to the blackmail and other charges recited details of the last days and death of Jess Smith.

She declared Smith was "enmeshed" by Daugherty and feared exposure.

Daugherty was charged by Senator Wheeler during the examining and unimpaired thing in attacking Miss Stinson.

"If he had the slightest bit of shame in him or the slightest bit of manhood," said Senator Wheeler, "he would retract the statement he has made."

The senator added that "the least" President Coolidge could do would be to suspend Daugherty from office during the investigation and charged that the great power of the department of justice was being used to thwart the committee. Former Senator Chamberlain of the Daugherty counsel replied that the attorney general's lawyers had had no opportunity to cross-examine Miss Stinson or other important witnesses, nor to call any for Daugherty. If this had been possible, he said, "the attorney general might not possibly have found it necessary to make that statement."

Contrary to the usual custom since the inquiry began there was no statement issued tonight by Daugherty nor the department of justice commenting on the day's proceedings.

THREATENED AT CLEVELAND.

In countering Daugherty's blackmail and other charges against her, Miss Stinson said she had been threatened with arrest in Cleveland in conferences with Fink, a man named Ellis and Samuel Ungerleider, a prominent Cleveland broker. She said she had laughed off the threat and told M. S. Daugherty, brother of the attorney general, that she proposed to give to the investigating committee the information she had from Jess Smith.

"Literally false and impossible," she added of the attorney general's charges that she and Fink occupied a room together in a Cleveland hotel.

She went on to say that Samuel Ungerleider told her that the man Ellis had made an affidavit "about some fabulous sum—I think he said $150,000—which I was to receive for not giving out information about this situation."

"Ellis, as Mr. Ungerleider told me," she continued, "was to get 20 per cent of the money, the remainder to be split between Fink and myself."

"I said to him, 'If you have both your words for this I should think it is true. Do as you please. I don't know anything about their business, only my own, and I am not interested. It was the slightest, most bungling childlike thing that I had ever heard of and it amused me a lot.'"

Later Ungerleider told her, Miss Stinson said, that the affair was "closed" and that she would not hear of it again, adding that he had to talk pretty strong to those fellows over there but it is all right now."

"The only thing that saved Fink was telling me outside your door that you had nothing to do with it."

"They threatened me with the bars," said Miss Stinson, "if I did not promise to say nothing detrimental or give out any information about Harry M. Daugherty."

M. S. Daugherty was present in Cleveland during her trouble there, the witness declared, and she afterward met him in Columbus and told him that she intended to tell her story under subpoena in Washington.

DISCUSSING BIG DEAL.

Her visit to Cleveland, Miss Stinson said, was in response to a telephone call from Fink that he wished to discuss a "big deal." This later developed to be related to organization of the Ideal Rubber Company, according to Miss Stinson, Fink reserved a room for her at the Hollenden hotel, she said, and met her there.

Stating that Fink had left her room about 11 p. m., after she had become "incensed" over his disclosure of her being registered under a fictitious name, Miss Stinson added:

"And this base insinuation of Mr. Harry M. Daugherty's that I occupied that room with this man is utterly false and impossible." The next day at the Statler hotel, Fink came to her and told her, she said, that "they have a warrant out for Ellis and me claiming that we were conspiring against Harry Daugherty. Unless you promise not to tell anything about Harry Daugherty, we will have to go behind the bars."

"You make me laugh," Miss Stinson said she replied.

When Fink added that there was also a warrant for her, the witness said her reply was:

"No, you are funny."

Miss Stinson said she told Ungerleider when he came to her last that he could "go back to his friends" and tell them that the whole affair was a "frameup" and that if "Ungerleider would go to Washington and tell everything."

"It is a frameup and I am going to tell them so," Miss Stinson said she told Ungerleider.

"I wouldn't do that; you know Harry Daugherty is a pretty stubborn man," she said Ungerleider replied.

"So am I, and he is not going to strongarm me. I am not Jess Smith and there is not going to be a convenient bullet in my head," Miss Stinson said she retorted.

"FRAMED BY CROOKS."
Ungerleider told her in Fink's presence, she added, that it appeared she "had been framed by a couple of crooks."

Continually during her testimony, Miss Stinson reiterated her defense of Jess Smith, declaring he was completely in the power of Daugherty. "He was enmeshed," she said, "thru his great loyalty and devotion to an unscrupulous man, Kaiserlike man."

During the last months of his life, Miss Stinson said Smith lived in fear of being "exposed." His last evening with her, she said, was "spent in cautioning me what not to tell, what books to destroy, what papers to destroy."

Smith went to a hardware store in Washington Court House, Ohio, and bought a "gun" after a quarrel he told her he had had with Daugherty "at the shack" which Smith and Daugherty maintained. She also said Smith always feared fire arms, and had armed himself only after Daugherty had "cursed and abused Jess shamefully" for waking him from a "nap."

"He blew up," said Miss Stinson, "and swore at him. Jess called for his car and came right into town and bought his gun—he'd made his decision. He told the hardware clerk that he was buying the gun for the attorney general."

Under questioning by Senator Wheeler, Miss Stinson with much hesitation told of viewing Smith's body when it was taken from Washington to Washington Court House. The attorney general's brother, Mal told her, she said, that Smith had killed himself. She said there were no powder marks on Smith's temple where the bullet had entered. Senator Wheeler asked several questions on this line, as to whether she knew of any inquest being held and who was in the apartment when Smith died. He asked if she had heard that Daugherty was at the White House on the night Smith died, in company with Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, but Miss Stinson said she had no knowledge on that subject.

LIMA STOCK MENTIONED

The witness expressed surprise over a telegraphic report received today by Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier who is aiding the committee regarding the contents of Smith's safety deposit box in Ohio. R. N. McFarland, a bank examiner, telegraphed that an audit showed it contained between $200,000 and $300,000 in stocks and bonds. Miss Stinson said she did not know the amount was so large. The telegram said the audit reported $89,000 on deposit in the Riggs National Bank here; $63,000 in Liberty bonds; $5, 000 in Pure Oil Co. stock; $45,000 in stock of a Lima, Ohio, cigar company, and other securities.

DAUGHERTY DEFIANT
WASHINGTON C. H., Ohio—(Associated Press)—M. S. Daugherty, brother of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, tonight declared that he would refuse to comply with a subpoena from the committee investigating the attorney general to produce before the committee records of the Midland National Bank, of which he is president.

Daugherty in a statement after being served with the subpoena, declared that his refusal to obey the summons was on advice of counsel, asserting that the request was "beyond all reason."

The summons commanded the bank president to produce deposit ledgers, notes, files and other records of the bank.

REFUSES TO COMPLY
M. S. Daugherty's statement said: "From advice of counsel, I refuse to comply with the order of the committee. It would be impossible to send the books of the bank to Washington. It was decided in the interest of the stockholders, depositors, the bank and the community that the request is beyond reason. There is nothing in the bank to confirm the outrageous falsehoods testified to before the committee. For the protection of the individual customers and the stockholders and upon advice of counsel, the bank will test the question. I expect to be in Washington, D. C., the first of next week."

A few days ago a similar summons for the head bookkeeper to appear with the bank's records before the committee was not obeyed on the ground that it would interfere with the normal transaction of the business at the bank while the books were in the capitol. John L. Phelan, representing the committee, was sent here to obtain information from the bank records that might bear on the senate inquiry into Attorney General Daugherty's administration but the examiner was halted, when, according to M. S. Daugherty, he was preparing to make examination of private accounts of bank patrons.

SINCLAIR FAILS TO TESTIFY

series of questions to Sinclair so as to make up the record upon which to certify his case to the senate. This record was presented to that body later in the day by Chairman Ladd and there was nearly an hour's general discussion without action.

COURSE NOT DECIDED.
Senator Walsh explained that the committee was not ready to recommend a course of procedure as it desired first to confer with special government counsel in the oil leases cases. A recommendation may be made Monday. The committee "prosecutor" told the senate there were two courses open—to have the president of the senate certify the case to the District of Columbia courts for grand jury proceedings, or to bring Sinclair before the bar of the senate and commit him to the custody of the sergeant-at-arms for imprisonment until he was ready to answer the questions.

Should the latter course be followed, Senator Walsh said, Sinclair probably could obtain liberty on a writ of error and then the case would have to be fought out in the courts.

The crowd which packed the big marble hearing room into which the oil committee has moved came expecting thrills and was not disappointed. Aside from the dramatic refusal of Sinclair to answer questions and the testimony of Hays, there were frequent wrangles among the members of the committee and a sharp passage between Senator Walsh and Martin W. Littleton, of counsel for Sinclair, at the conclusion of which Chairman Ladd informed Littleton that it was his opinion "that counsel went beyond his rights, both yesterday and today in his statements."

Having lost a determined fight to keep off the witness stand, Sinclair took the chair in front of the committee without being sworn, as the oath had been administered before. He produced a written statement and proceeded to read it. He then leaned back in his chair to await the pleasure of the committee.

STARTS QUESTIONING.
Senator Walsh immediately began the questioning, asking about contract which Sinclair entered into with J. Leo Stack, a Denver oil operator, and Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, relating to the purchase of "claims" in Teapot Dome.

The New York oil magnate conferred hastily with Mr. Littleton, who sat beside him, and then said: "I decline to answer on advice of counsel and on the same grounds."

In their order Senator Walsh pronounced questions on the following subjects and received the same answer:

"The contract between the Mammoth Oil Co. and the Pioneer and Belgo oil companies, by which the first named bought out the 'claims' of the last named in Teapot Dome."

G. D. Wahlberg's testimony that Sinclair had loaned some bonds to a "Mr. Hays."

John C. Shaffer's testimony that there had been an agreement between Sinclair and Albert B. Fall by which Shaffer was to receive a certain portion of Teapot Dome.

Where Sinclair first met Fall. The transfer of $100,000 from Sinclair's account in a New York bank to a Washington bank and its retransfer to another New York bank.

A store that Sinclair had contributed 75,000 shares of stock to wipe out the deficit of the Republican national committee.

Sinclair then asked Sinclair if he was ready to deliver to the committee the books of the Hyva Corporation, his personal corporation, and he announced that he declined to do so "on advice of counsel and on the same grounds."

crat, Colorado, asked as to the contents of the oil magnate's previous testimony that neither he nor any of his companies had given or loaned anything to Fall, but Sinclair declined to answer and was excused.

There was a general stir in the crowd and a craning of necks as Will H. Hays was called. He moved from out of the crowd at one side of the room, stood while the oath was administered and then identified himself as an attorney at law and one time chairman of the Republican national committee.

HAYS IS COOL
Through his examination, the former postmaster general was cool and collected and frequently emphasized his replies to questions by striking the table in front of him with the forefinger of his right hand.

Asked to tell the committee about a statement before another senate committee that certain bonds of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co. had been delivered to him to wipe out the Republican committee deficit, Hays said:

"I can not tell you about that, because it is not true. That story is as false in content as it is libelous in purpose. Really, it is not true. Well—that is the fact about it."

"What were you going to say?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I think that is all. I cannot tell about that, because it is not so."

Sinclair then turned to a report published yesterday in the New York Times which said it was understood that Hays would tell the committee the story figured in meeting the deficit and Hays said he "did not know the source of that story."

Asked if he would be surprised if the information came from his office, Hays said he would and that it could not have been obtained from anybody who pretended to know the facts "because it is not true."

After Hays had identified Joseph O'Neill, of his New York office staff, Senator Walsh asked if he would be surprised to know O'Neill had told the story to the Times.

"Well, he could not have told it with any knowledge of the facts," Hays said, "because there are not any such facts."

Sinclair then asked Hays to tell what Sinclair did have to do with making up the deficit of the Republican committee. The former postmaster general said he assumed that the committee would consider a general discussion of campaign contributions to be irrelevant as he would and he then started a long discussion on the subject.

Sinclair, Stanfield, Oregon, interposed an objection to the original question as irrelevant, but his motion to exclude it was voted down, six to four.

WALSH PRESSES QUESTION
The former national committee chairman reminded the committee that he had been dissociated from the committee for years and that he did not have the records. Senator Walsh pressed the question.

"My information is," Hays said, "that the total amount in 1918, 1919 and 1920 campaigns, including the deficit, that could possibly have been given by Sinclair was not over $75,000."

"How much was given to make up the deficit?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I do not know," Hays responded. "I just do not know. I do not know."

Sinclair then asked Hays to explain that the members of the national committee were carrying a heavy burden in the deficit and that, altho he was out of the committee,

M'GAHAN IS BACK IN DAYTON JAIL

Bandit Who Escaped in Battle Here Faces New Trial

CONVICTED IN TOLEDO CASE

Night of Thrills and Death of Pal in Lima Recalled

George "Red" McGahan was returned Saturday to the county jail at Dayton from Toledo, where he entered a plea of guilty to conspiracy to defraud the government, and received a sentence of two years in the federal penitentiary and a fine of $8,000.

McGahan will be tried at Dayton Thursday, April 2, for robbery of the West Carroll bank, April 9, 1920, when four bandits obtained more than $30,000.

He is said to be wanted in Louisville, St. Paul, Pittsburgh, Youngstown and a score of other cities in the country, mostly on charges of robbery.

BATTLE HERE

Wounded, a man answering to McGahan's description portended McGahan's capture and possible death in Lima, when on the night of May 21, 1921, he ran half a dozen blocks on Main and S. Elizabeth streets with police in close pursuit. He escaped when he jumped onto the running board of a machine driven by Paul Phillips, whom he forced at the point of a pistol to drive to Findlay. One of "Red's" pals was killed in the battle with Lima police.

Police had sought McGahan for six years before he was captured on the night of Dec. 18, 1923, following a fray around the rail in a cafeteria in Findlay, where he had gone to see a salaried woman with whom he was said to be in love.

Taken to Columbus, McGahan was held under $50,000 bond for alleged participation in the robbery of the Grove City, Ind., bank on Dec. 4. Later he was returned to Toledo, where he was sentenced before being returned to Dayton Saturday.

POSED AS BROKER

McGahan's police record shows that he has successfully masqueraded as a New York bond broker, a gentleman of leisure, society sportsman, and that he has assumed other personalities during his long career of alleged law breaking.

McGahan was born in Cleveland about 25 years ago. His first prison sentence began in 1906 when he was sent to the Mansfield reformatory for a robbery in Columbus. He did time in the Ohio penitentiary between 1912 and 1917 for another robbery in Columbus.

OBITUARY

Eva Inez Wonnell, daughter of Edward and Mary J. Wonnell was born at South Warsaw, Ohio, November 20, 1868, and departed this life at Lima, Ohio, March 18, 1924, aged 55 years 3 months 28 days.

When a young girl she gave her heart to God and his service in which she remained devotedly until called to her heavenly home.

August 18, 1888, she was married to C. A. Graham, to which union two children were born, Helen Estelle and Russell Thoburn, both of whom survive her.

Early in the year 1922 she was stricken with that dread disease, cancer, and notwithstanding the heroic efforts she put forth with all aid of expert medical skill and science she finally, after extreme suffering, was compelled to yield to the conqueror of all death, passing as she had often so expressed her might, sleeping peacefully to her Eternal reward.

She was noted for her strong faith in the Christ and her great devotion to her home and family.

She leaves to mourn her departure her husband, C. A. Graham, her two children, Helen Estelle Graham and Russell Thoburn Graham, one grandchild, Robert Charles Graham, three sisters, Cora A. Thomas, Carrie Kern, and Nellie Grace Wonnell, all of Lima, Ohio, and one brother, Alva M. Wonnell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, with many more distant relatives and hosts of friends.

The following beautiful testimonial was contributed by her neighbor and friend, Mrs. Jacobs:

Mrs. Graham's was a most beautiful character, in whom all the womanly graces were exemplified, a woman of high and noble ideals, and she lived up to these ideals by her staunchness to principle, her fidelity to truth and her loyalty to her friends. All that stood for purity, for goodness, for a higher standard of excellence, called forth a ready response from her. Keenly intellectual, she possessed a rare mind, one attuned to the highest vibrations that emanate from infinite good. To know her was to love her and to have had her for a friend was indeed a privilege and blessing to those having known the elevating influence of her friendship, which they will ever treasure as a pleasing tender memory. Her long illness, filled with hours of excruciating pain, was borne with a sweet patience and a remarkable fortitude, which spoke eloquently of her enduring Christian faith.

The profusion of beautiful flowers bear mute testimony to the love and esteem in which she was held by her relatives and friends.

Thursday afternoon, March 20, funeral services were conducted at her girlhood home in Ohio Chapel church, at South Warsaw, by Rev. G. B. Garner of Cairo, assisted by Rev. A. A. Thomas, of Lima, and Rev. O. E. Smith, of Cridersville.

The music, so beautifully rendered, was furnished by a male quartet consisting of Messrs. Mikosell, Calvert, Shumate and Cass, using three of Mrs. Graham's favorite hymns, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," "Saved By Grace," and "Crowning the King."

The pallbearers were J. E. Summers, A. D. Neuman, J. F. Clem, F. W. Cook, F. C. Smith and Dr. C. E. Stadler, all of whom had been especially kind to the deceased during her long illness.

Following the largely attended and impressive funeral services at the church the body was laid to rest in beautiful Fairmount cemetery near her loved ones who had preceded her to the heavenly Kingdom.

GOETSCHUS' DEATH WAS THIRD IN FAMILY WHICH HAS OCCURRED SUDDENLY

OTTAWA—Morris G. Goetschius, senior member of the firm of Goetschius & L. duverne, stone quarry owners here, who died suddenly Tuesday night in his office at Lima, was the third member of his family to die suddenly.

But a few weeks ago Clark H. Rice, a brother-in-law, and former Ottawa banker, was stricken. Goetschius did not attend the funeral, as he was feeling badly, his relatives say. Rice resided in Baton Rouge, La. Mrs. Rice was unable to come for final services for her brother.

Goetschius' father died suddenly years ago just after the words which had fallen from the minister's lips had united for life Mr. and Mrs. Rice in the father's residence in Iowa.

News of the death of Goetschius so unnerved his father-in-law, Thomas J. Mapel, of W. Spring-st., Lima, that he was unable to come for the funeral. He collapsed soon after word reached him. Mr. and Mrs. Mapel were visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Frank M. Morrill (Alta Mapel) in Chicago.

Mrs. Mapel came for the funeral, but Mrs. Morrill remained in Chicago with her father.

Pratt K. Mapel, of Detroit, was here for the funeral services over his brother-in-law. He formerly was postmaster at Columbus Grove.

ACTION AGAINST GUARDIAN OPENS IN OTTAWA COURT

OTTAWA — An action to obtain $14.45 alleged to be due from John Weber, guardian of Samuel Basinger, Pandora, was begun by Basinger in common pleas court Saturday.

John Weber was appointed guardian of Basinger in 1911 and after serving until April, 1919, resigned, at which time Basinger was declared mentally competent to transact his own affairs. P. A. Amstutz and Albert B. Hilly were sureties on the $1,200 bond given by Weber. The petition relates that Weber failed to pay the remaining money due his ward and asks collection from his bondsmen.

ROW OVER CHANGING TYPE OF CURRENT ADJUSTED

CONTINENTAL — Complaint of W. E. Bauer and W. H. Hill of Oakwood, Paulding-co, against the Continental Light & Power Co., filed before the Ohio public utilities commission at Columbus, protesting against a change in type of electric current from 25 to 60 cycle, furnished by the Ohio Power Co. to the Continental company, and thru the latter company to consumers at Oakwood, has been dismissed.

According to word received here an amicable adjustment has been effected. The Continental distribution company agreed to pay half the cost of changing meters by Bauer and Hill at Oakwood, to receive the new type of current.

The Ohio Power Co. was made a party defendant in the original action, but its motion to be relieved of responsibility was sustained by the utilities commission, on showing that it has no contract with the consumers, but is merely in the position of supplying current to be distributed by others.

New Cleveland Man Is Leader Of Food Club

OTTAWA — While women are generally supposed to look after food and cooking, Putnam-co has the unique distinction of having one man as food club leader. He is August Heckman, of New Cleveland, superintendent there of parochial schools for the past 25 years.

Miss Lella Ogle, of Ohio State university, in charge of the club work for girls who, with leaders formulated plans for the work the coming year, declared that in her extension work of three years, she never before had come across a man as food club leader.

Heckman's school annually takes many prizes at the Putnam-co fair.

Miss Ogle instructed the girls in canning, much of the time being spent with first and second year's work in the food club.

Mrs. Pratt Agnor and Mrs. Homer Pierson, residing near Ottawa, gave a practical demonstration of canning. Twenty county leaders attended the meeting.

With the retirement of George, Henry Deters, brother to Joseph T. Deters, becomes chief deputy. He has been serving as deputy clerk since Deters took the office in September.

Davies, chairman of the Men's Association of Delphos, stated Saturday night that the regular meeting of that organization probably would be held at the original headquarters, Methodist church, as the repairs on the auditorium and other remodeling work has been finished. However, there is more work under way at the present time. Excavating will take place and the furnace will be moved to the basement.

DELPHOS BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Augur, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stewart drove to Ft. Wayne to spend the Sunday there.

William Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stewart, Delphos, returned from Mckinley, where he is employed, to spend the week-end at home.

Joseph Uim, 50, long time resident of Delphos and Civil War veteran, is critically ill at his home on W. Sixth-st.

Leo Kurber, E. Eighth-st., student at St. Johns High school, has opened up a barber shop in the rear of Vogt & Davey repair shop, W. Second-st.

J. W. Harris, Delphos, who successfully sustained an operation at St. Rita's hospital is reported as being improved very much.

Hall Rack, 120 Years Old, Still Ready For Use

DELPHOS — Struggling bravely to save itself from fading into the realms of forgetfulness, a combination hall rack, age 120 years, now reposes in the display window of a store owned by Wm. Redmon, W. Second-st.

Having been well taken care of, the antique shows no marks of age but stands up well and is of good appearance, never betraying once the sturdy walnut from which it was made.

It is one of the pioneer pieces of furniture of Delphos and was brought here by one L. J. Roebuck many decades ago. It was then taken to the home of Fred Hume, N. Washington-st.

The rack is a good combination. It is perhaps six feet tall in delicate hand-carvings typical of the day in which it was in vogue. On the top five twisted knobs protrude for hats and coats, and in the center of the largest part is a heavy plate mirror. At the bottom is a metal oval-centered plate directly above which are two arms which hold umbrellas. It also graces a drawer for brushes.

DELPHOS — Illicit liquor which Jos. Ricker, Rushmore, is alleged to have sold in Delphos cost him $300 in Mayor Leasure's court Saturday afternoon. Ricker pleaded guilty, paid the fine, and obeyed orders by leaving town immediately.

Chief of Police Clark Thompson, made the arrest when he heard Ricker had sold a pint of "hooch" Friday March 14.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible. If you are overweight and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4615 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or write them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. Starvation diets are weakening. Violent exercises are dangerous. Gradual and salient are absurd. Take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that fatty flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

The music, so beautifully rendered, was furnished by a male quartet consisting of Messrs. Mikosell, Calvert, Shumate and Cass, using three of Mrs. Graham's favorite hymns, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," "Saved By Grace," and "Crowning the King."

The pallbearers were J. E. Summers, A. D. Neuman, J. F. Clem, F. W. Cook, F. C. Smith and Dr. C. E. Stadler, all of whom had been especially kind to the deceased during her long illness.

Following the largely attended and impressive funeral services at the church the body was laid to rest in beautiful Fairmount cemetery near her loved ones who had preceded her to the heavenly Kingdom.

ACTION LOOMS ON DISPOSAL PLANT

Commissioners Ready to Act on Infirmary Problem

CESSPOOLS RECEIVE FAVOR

Method to Be Used to Depend on New Investigation

Action on recommendations made by Dr. John E. Monger of the state board of health at Columbus for construction of a sewerage disposal plant at the county infirmary, in Bath-twp., may be taken during the coming week by county commissioners.

Dr. Monger in a letter to the commissioners recently called attention to lack of a disposal plant and charged that dumping sewerage into the Ottawa river is polluting the raw water supply of the city of Lima.

INVESTIGATION MADE
Outlet of the sewer carrying wastes from the infirmary, is located at a point 200 feet below the intake of Lima lake. Investigation of the situation was made, according to Monger by a state health inspector.

Commissioners and Manager C. A. Bingham recently looked over the situation, when it was proposed to create a new drainage outlet at a point above the intake. The main outlet was not to be changed.

Manager Bingham, objected to the drain above the intake, but stated that in his opinion the water coming from the main drain is pure. Tests have been made to determine this, he declared Saturday. Commissioners were unable to say Saturday what sort of disposal system will be installed if any.

CESSPOOLS O. K. BELIEF
They are of the opinion that sewerage from the infirmary now may go into cesspools, instead of the drain. An investigation to find if this is true will be made before discussing the proposed sewerage plant.

Plans for a disposal plant at the infirmary were prepared some years ago according to Dr. Monger, but nothing was done on account of the advent of the World War.

Two miles down stream from the sewer outlet, the intake to Lost Creek reservoir is located. Commissioners believe that water running that distance would be purified.

SETTLEMENT EFFECTED IN MILLER DIVORCE TANGLE

Final settlement of the divorce action fought out in common pleas court between Mrs. Tessie Miller, and Lester Miller, Amanda-twp. residents, was made in common pleas court Saturday.

Mrs. Miller executed a deed to her former mate for one-half interest in a 165 acre Amanda-twp. farm. Miller turned over to her a check in payment of $3,760 alimony awarded by the court.

Motions for new trial and a motion to modify the decree filed late Friday were dismissed as result of the settlement.

Mrs. Miller's motion sought modification on the premises that the alimony had not been paid to her, altho the deed was tendered to Miller March 13. She asked that she be awarded 60 acres of land in lieu of money.

She sought new trial on error, while Lester in motion for new trial charged that the alimony was out of reason and the costs had been assessed against him, altho he won the decree.

SPEED URGED ON TAX MEASURE

Revenue Bill, Considered In Senate, Political Target

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — The revenue bill became the target for political discussion and meetings today after undergoing another examination by the senate finance committee which resulted in no change in the technical administrative provisions considered.

Taken up in debate on the senate floor, the bill was advanced by members of both parties as a piece of legislation which ought to be speeded along.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, said he had read reports that in view of the changes made by the house in the bill it was likely the president would veto it. He added, however, that he did not think such would be the case.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said his fear was "the president will not have an opportunity and again urged the senate to 'get down to business on legislation.'" Mr. Borah added that he thought the senate would frame a measure to suit every one "rather than any individual."

Democratic members of the committee met again to discuss a rate schedule which they will offer as a substitute for the Longworth rates.

With a decision yet to be made as to whether the soldier bonus bill will be put ahead of the tax measure, Chairman Smoot continued study of the proposed changes he will offer to the house bonus bill.

RECEIVER FOR FIERY CROSS IS REQUESTED

INDIANAPOLIS — A receiver for the Fiery Cross Publishing Co., publishers of a Ku Klux Klan newspaper was asked in a suit filed in the Marion county superior courts Saturday by Ernest W. Reichard, a director and president of the company.

The suit alleged the income of the paper has been diverted to propagation work for the Klan and that the company is unable to pay its obligations because of what is termed in the complaint as mismanagement of its affairs by Walter Bossert and Harry E. Bloom, who constitute a majority of the directors.

PROVIDE FOR CROSSES

WASHINGTON — Legislative wheels rolled backward long enough Saturday for the senate to recall a deficiency bill passed Friday and attach an amendment that would insure retention in permanent form of the white crosses that now mark the graves of American war dead overseas.

HOUSE SHIP QUIZ UNDER WAY

Sensation Lacking When Investigation Is Opened

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Unlike some of its predecessors, the investigation by a special house committee of the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation, got under way today with out any sensations.

Opening the first formal session of the committee, Representative White, Republican, Maine, the chairman, read a report detailing in 24 separate groups data desired from the board and around which is expected to revolve much of the committee's investigation.

The information sought, including detailed records of all property owned and sold, salaries, personnel, both past and present, ship sales, leases, managing operators' and advertising contracts and other material, would be used, Chairman White said, "to enable the committee to study as it becomes available as an aid in mapping out further action."

Lehigh C. Palmer, president of the fleet corporation, was the only witness questioned during the session.

Representative Davis, Democrat, Tennessee, author of the investigation resolution and committee "prosecutor" led Mr. Palmer in many probing questions, including trade route consolidations, section 28 of the merchant marine act, ship sales and salary and duplicate personnel reductions. He wanted to inform himself as to these matters, he said, for guidance in discussions to arise when the independent office appropriation bill comes up for consideration.

POSTAL WORKERS HERE LIKE PENDING BILL

Lima postoffice employees, one of their number said Saturday, are optimistic in their views with regard to the Kelly-Edge bill which is being considered by congress at the present time, and which provides for an increase of 30 per cent in the wages of both carriers and clerks.

The average wage at the present time is from $14.00 to $18.00 a year. In the event the proposed bill is passed an average increase of $6.00 a year will be made in the salaries of all postal employees.

FEVER AT ACADEMY
WEST POINT — An epidemic of scarlet fever in the United States Military Academy, brought forth orders Saturday to cancel all social affairs and exclude all visitors. Seven cadets and one enlisted man are at the isolation hospital.

Monday night will be "radio night" for the Y. M. C. A. Yamllo club. Included on the program for the night will be a radio concert, a short movie on "The Wizardry of Radio," by courtesy of the General Electric Co., and a dinner, which will be served promptly at 6:30.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS ARE ON Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

HOSPITAL SITE QUESTION UP TO COMMISSION SOON

Possibility that the question of deciding on a site for the proposed $600,000 hospital will be taken up at the meeting of the commission Monday night was expressed Saturday by Commissioner J. J. Rankin, who has been engaged actively in boosting the east side for the hospital.

Petitions said to contain the signatures of nearly 5,000 property owners, which were circulated by east side boosters, have not yet been filed with the commission. They are to be filed, previous to the award meeting.

Negotiations with owners of the tract of land subdivided for building lots have led to belief by the site committee that a plot of four acres may be donated to increase the value of the other property in event the location is selected for the structure.

Mrs. D. J. Danaher, 864 St. John-st., has been removed to her home from St. Rita's hospital where she had been taken for treatment.

WALK-OVER TRIMS FOR SPRING

The large metropolitan centers have nothing on the city of Lima when it comes to springtime displays in the shop windows. This fact is proven by the clever and unique trim that occupies the show windows of the Walk-Over Boot Shop in the public square.

Mr. Bailey the local manager has spared neither time nor money in his efforts to show the people of Lima and community the authentic modes in footwear for the new spring season now at hand. The bursting blossoms significantly arranged are symbolic of the numerous new style creations for both men and women that have come forth just at the time they are most welcomed.

Another hat was definitely cast in the political ring in Allen-co Saturday, when J. F. Yoakum, trustee of Shawnee-tp announced that he is a candidate for nomination of county commissioner on the Republican ticket, subject to the primary election in August.

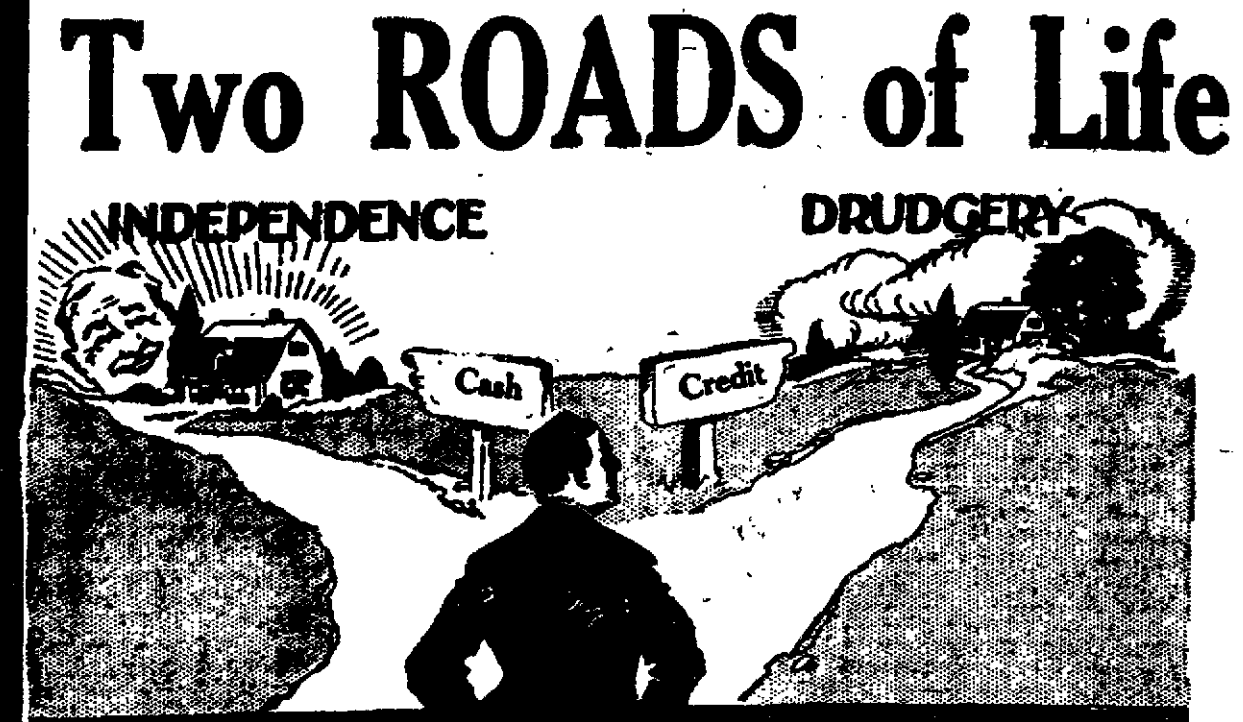

Yoakum is a prosperous farmer in Shawnee-tp and is serving on the board of trustees. Two candidates are to be elected. J. W. Thompson, incumbent is already a candidate for reelection.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The past week has brought little change in business conditions over the country. Wall-st vagaries have vacillated within narrow limits, largely in fractions and flurries against prominent stock leaders.

If the week has thrown any light upon the future of the money market projected that light upon the business screen. Call funds dropped as low as two per cent Friday, which means an abundance of capital in the banks of New York. It means probably more, even locally, for low money usually brings an advancing bond market. Liberties are now within less than a dollar par, even the fourth issue. Banks, in Lima as other cities, have a big bond account, as their second line of defense. With a rising market, these bonds will be converted into supplies of cash available.

Retail trade has been sporadic, due more to weather than buying power. While recognizing the time-honored law of supply and demand, merchants have long since realized that demand can be created, so long as the consumer has wealth. Wrigley gum, safety razor, toothpaste and phonographs are outstanding examples of this. Publicity will sell anything, if the people have the money. Lima has ten per cent more buying power than ever in history. Money supply alone brings prosperity, lack of it, hard times.

There are divergent views in the building outlook. Cities have filled in the house shortage to an enormous degree. Lower rents must inevitably follow continued construction, although these lower rents will come to unmodern and old construction, rather than to the endeavors of homebuilders and apartment erectors.

Politics continues to play a huge part psychologically, on the mass of people. The senate probes have made it appear that everybody connected with Washington, was, is or maybe, a crook. This is unfortunate; all but criminal. If Congress adjourned, the country would automatically respond. Governmental antics such as we have witnessed, accomplish nothing but destruction of innocent men's reputations.

City finances are still hopeless. School board finances more recalcitrant, but weakened. Bond issues or mill levies will be asked for both, if one reads the signs.

Our school building program should be and must be so far as the public is concerned, a closed incident for the next five years. Despite juggling of figures, we have sufficient school plant, with present construction finished, to house a population ten per cent greater than Lima now claims.

Municipal financial troubles are universal, principal with our democratic form. Think of a business, concern unable to pay $2,000 a year for its share of hospital service, then running around finding a site which will require it to pay $36,000 interest a year from the same income.

The Elizabeth-st bridge was as necessary as a private secretary in a one-man blacksmith shop. The Kibby-st bridge may be a wonderful work of art, but a busted treasury should not be contemplating art. And while a county project, Lima taxpayers will pay two-thirds of its cost.

In summary, Lima never looked better. Retailers are in for a big trade this spring, given any break in weather. Easter is late, but had it been early, weather would have ruined it. There is no indication of unemployment; every indication of a bigger demand for labor, than supply. Wages will not go down. Commodities may.

BLAMING THE POLICE

Since time immemorial, let a crime occur and the perpetrator escape, and the police of the community become the butt for censure.

At this time, as part and parcel of the gross disregard for law, Lima has been subjected to a series of bold hold-ups. These have been occurring in that wide area between the Pennsylvania and Ottawa river, known as the west end. It is an unpatrolled section, except for six motor cops. Too often emergency requires these motor police to rush to a hooch raid. While busy at this work, the same men, can not be at patrol duty, even on wheels.

Crime has multiplied, but police vigilance has decreased. Chief Lanker has not sufficient men to act as guardians of the city, at best. When these men are also used as dry sleuths, at the beck and call of the enforcement bureau, he has a sadly depleted corps for property protection.

City finances do not permit of a larger personnel in the police department. Which brings us down to plain, bare facts, that taxpayers alone are largely to blame for underprotection. The fines secured from the rabble who are arrested in so-called raids, read well in print. But no balance could ever be made between fines assessed and balance in bank. The fines and imprisonment are mostly the bunk.

Lima has, to the best knowledge of keen newspaper men, a well organized, loyal, hard working police department. Without hope of reward, rather underpaid than overpaid. If Lima's citizenship wants better protection both against burglaries, hold-ups, motor theft, murder, and the more heinous crimes, as well as enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and Crabbe law, then Chief Lanker should be given a larger army. Instead of given censure.

BIG LOAD TO CARRY

If President Coolidge doesn't sense it now, perhaps he will later on, that his defense of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, in keeping him in his cabinet in the face of disclosures made in connection with oil, films, whisky and a few other things, is about the biggest political mistake he ever made.

Some of the most prominent and influential Republican newspapers in the country are seeing what Mr. Coolidge refuses to see—that the retention of Daugherty is adding to the heavy damage already done to Republican chances in November. The manner in which Daugherty is being denounced in rabidly Republican newspapers evinces the fact that they see danger ahead—and lots of it.

The Springfield, Ill., Republican says: "Recent developments in Washington have led thousands of voters to the determination to seek a new deal, and to vote against everyone in office, whether or not there be even a suspicion that he has been involved in any seeming irregularity. That this exists, there is no doubt. The only uncertainty is as to its extent."

Hundreds of letters are being received daily by Democratic senators and congressmen from Republican voters, who volunteer the information that they intend to support Democratic candidates instead of Republicans next November. Senator Walsh alone has received scores of such letters from Republican men and women in various parts of the country.

Republican leaders know there is a steady and serious defection from the ranks of their party because of the scandals that have stained the Harding-Coolidge administration almost from the beginning. There is no sign that President Coolidge has been able to stop or retrieve this loss of public confidence in the Republican regime.

Harry Daugherty represents, in the minds of the people, the condition which the general public respects. Still Daugherty remains in the cabinet and is a candidate for delegate at large to the national convention for Coolidge.

NEW YORK ARRESTS

Over 61,000 offenders were convicted in the courts of New York state during 1923, is announced. A fourth of these were cases of intoxication. The rest were more serious offenses, ranging from murder down to assaults and petty thefts.

Disregarding the drunks, New York still had enough to fill a jail as big as many well-known cities. It amounted to one person in every 226 of the state's population. Is that surprisingly large or surprisingly small?

Cost of the bonus bill is set at more than two billions, and they may have to go without a few scandals to pay it.

As seer and forecaster, Dr. Viner is a sound logician, statistical authority, and able rostrum speaker.

Dr. Viner believes we are in a static era, neither of boom, nor collapse. That the farmer is better off than the farmer believes himself to be. That Uncle Sam is groaning under an avalanche of gold. And his people will have work in plenty for years to come.

So, home late to my wife, poor wretch. Who at watchful waiting is a real queen. Thence, on peanut butter sandwiches with pruno juice for a spread, eat long and discuss whether it would be dress and coat, or a smart suit, for Easter. And very late, to bed.

TRY TO FOOL YOURSELF

The aim and intent of this series of talks (I assure you it is a series, of which this is the sixth) was to tell our old friends, the fat folks, how to eat. Or in politest words, how to choose all the good nourishment, strengthening items of the bill of fare and pack away said items in the bread basket without growing fat. I am always interested in the troubles of fat folks, and little, if at all concerned about the thin ones. Or so it seems to seem to numerous skinny ones who write to complain about this discrimination. As I have tried to explain, my noble object is to do all the good I can, and since the fat die so young, as a rule, I feel it is but fair that I should devote my tireless energies to them, to try to save a few of them, to keep them with us a little longer, if possible. And besides, it is comparatively easy to tell fat folks what makes 'em so and now to come back, whereas skinny people are a tough proposition in any way you take 'em—hard to feed, hard to clothe, hard to fatten. But I'm coming to the skinny ones bye and bye. I'm going to do my duty by them even if I have to stretch several points. Skinny people are long lived and while they're living they afford very little sustenance to us doctors, yet they are very unhappy about it, I judge, and I simply must try to tell them something to cheer them up a bit, at any rate. But they'll keep. Let us get rid of a few more fat folks first.

Have you ever noticed that just about the time you settle down to enjoy anything in this life, whether prosperity, entertainment, pancakes or patent medicine, some one is sure to yell "Look out! That's dangerous!" I am reminded of this every time I reluctantly shoo out our old cat away from the canary. It seems almost cruel to deny the innocent pleasure of watching the pretty creature, and yet we must, in the interest of the health of all concerned in a cat's eyes a bright yellow canary full of vivid song must be extremely fascinating, and yet the cat shows admirable discretion and exercises an enviable temperance by devoting a considerable share of his ample leisure to the pursuit of other diversions than birds.

There is a great deal of satisfaction in the exercise of self denial, particularly by way of hygienic discipline. In fact, from such little satisfaction of that kind as I have experienced, I believe it might fully compensate for the pleasures missed. Eminent advocates of this hygienic self denial sometimes refer to the greater pleasures in store for him who musters sufficient will and courage to withdraw his eyes now and then from the canary. Horace Fletcher, I think, extols the higher pleasure somewhere in his writings.

The ingestion of food is a pleasure which all healthy folk should enjoy. The sight, odor and taste of the food should give pleasure. Unfortunately our artificially cultivated appetites cannot be depended on to tell us when we've had enough and a little too much food, then it seems to give pleasure now, is pre-ay sure to prove an injury to us in the long run. So the main principle of the Fletcher doctrine, at least, is sound and helpful: chew each morsel till you've extracted all the taste there is in it. This practice satisfies an abnormal appetite with a smaller amount of food.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

STONE THROWERS
Are you so clean that you dare to defame
Stone-throwers, is there no wrong you have done?
One who has honestly stumbled in shame?
What if your records were bared to the sun?
Have you not cheated and have you not lied,
Played for position and bartered for price?
How can you stand up and preach about sin,
Knowing the wrong which your snugness shuts in?

Stone-throwers, now if your records are clear
Tell us the pathway such splendor to gain!
Lead us and guide us who suffer life's stain.
If you are blameless then justly you sneer,
But once spake the Master to whom all was known:
"Let him without sin come and cast the first stone."
And none of that number could look in His face.

For each in his breast bore the stamp of disgrace,
Stone-throwers, better sweet patience than rage.
We, too, have erred if the world only knew:
Not always unselfish the deeds which we do,
Not without blemish or blot is our page,
Fearless to stand against wrong should we be,
But who of us here from all sinning is free?

Who of us here, when the long race is run,
Will not ask forgiveness for something he's done?

Fellowship of Prayer

(Copyright, 1924)

Read Mt. 6:14-15. Text: 6:13. Ye therefore shall be perfect as your heavenly Father is perfect.

"The wonderful way of living is a life in which one looks out to God the heavenly Father in frequent prayer, in which one wishes to join all other men in using all resources for the common good, in which one looks out for spiritual leadership to Him who saw the vision of the life of man as it ought to be, and in which every new experience strengthens the conviction that the life is too good and strong ever to give out. The Christian is a great adventurer."

MEDITATION: God has placed an ideal of life in every human soul, the outlines of the outlines are distinct. If life grows sinful and selfish the ideal may fade away. God has also with the ideal given man an incentive for achievement which is the divine urge in human life for perfection—even as God is perfect.

PERSONAL QUESTION: Does Christ really expect me to take perfection as my standard?

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, it is thy will that our lives should be like thy life. Give us pray thee, such communion with thy spirit that we may be guided by thee even when we are not speaking to thee. Thou art the fountain of our hope and the light upon our pathway. Give us thy grace, thru Christ. Amen.

COLLEGE GRIDIRON RULES REVAMPED BY COMMITTEE

RADICAL CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES MADE

NEW YORK—(By Associated Press)—Four radical changes in the football playing code, all intended to speed up the game and increase its versatility, were made today by the National Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee at its annual meeting.

The abolition of all mud or artificial kicking tees, the advancement of the kickoff from the 40 yard line to the center of the field, an increase from 2 to 5 yards of the penalty for excess line out and decision to try for point after touchdowns from the three instead of five yard line were the most important measures approved. A number of others were made to clarify rules often misinterpreted.

Despite a recommendation by the Coaches' Association that the rule against the flying tackle be abolished on the ground that it is admitted seldom enforced, the committee after a lengthy debate, decided not to do so. It was understood members felt that if bars were let down in this respect, it might encourage rougher play.

The elimination of all kicking tees was made to place a greater premium on this feature while the advancement of the kickoff from the 40-yard line to the center of the field was described as a natural consequence of the former rule. "Heeling" the ground to make a groove for the ball on the kickoff or place kick will be permitted under the new rule.

In an endeavor to discourage delays, the rule permitting three "time outs" during a half, with a two-yard penalty for each one in excess, was changed so that a team will be allowed four "time outs" with a five-yard penalty for each period over that number.

Baseball Will Be Major Sport

With the closing of their basketball season, the St. John's high athletes will now turn their attention to baseball.

Baseball always has been a major sport at St. John's up until last year, when due to a lack of available material the school was not represented on the diamond.

However, these difficulties have been overcome this year and prospects for a strong nine are bright.

As soon as the weather permits the squad will enter their preliminary practices. It has been decided to do practically all practices at the City park.

A schedule is at present being arranged by Manager Quinlan and he is confining every effort to book some high class school teams in this district.

Following is a list of players and the position they will endeavor to make on the team:

Johnson, catcher; Simons and Casey, pitchers; Selig, St. Quinlan, 1b; Bailey, 2b; Kayer, 3b; Schell, Bruin Casey, Mumaugh and Helmig outfielders.

Tennis Champ Will Retire Jan. 1

NEW YORK — Disclosing plans for what may be his final season of competition, William T. Tilden, national champion, announced today that he would devote his 1924 play to the Davis cup and the defense of his national titles in the singles and doubles.

At the same time, Tilden in a statement issued thru the United States Lawn Tennis Association, reiterated that the organization's interpretation of its new player writer rule would force him to retire from amateur competition after January 1, 1925, when the rule goes into effect.

St. Marys High Beat Wapak 28-12

ST. MARYS.—St. Marys high school boys' basketball team won the third and last game of the season playing against the Wapak boys' team at Wapak, in a score of 28 and 12. Wapak school girls won against St. Marys girls in a score of 11 and 8. The St. Marys boys high school team this season won twenty of the twenty-eight games. Games were staged with Toledo, Van Wert, Pennville (2), Kenton, Spencerville (2), New Bremen, Bluffton, Bowling Green, Lafayette, Lima Central, Delphos St. John's, Rockford, Celina (2), Wapak (3), Minster (2), New Knoxville, Company K (2), Alumni, All Stars, Lima, Lima St. Rose, Waynesfield. The team took the Auglaize county school championship in the recent tournament at Waynesfield.

Women Tennis Tourney At Longwood

BROOKLINE, Mass.—The National Indoor Women's Tennis championship on the Longwood covered courts ended Saturday with victories for Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., in the singles, and for Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston, and William T. Tilden, Jr., of Philadelphia, in the mixed doubles.

Mrs. Jessup, who with Mrs. Wightman won the women's doubles title Sunday, easily ran out her match with Miss Lillian Scherman, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The scores were 6-2; 6-3.

Mrs. Wightman and Tilden had a harder time in defeating Miss Scherman and James Davies, of Los Angeles, 7-6, 7-5, 6-2.

HUGGINS SAYS FOUR PENNANTS FOR YANKS

(BY JOE WILLIAMS)

NEW ORLEANS.—Mr. Miller Huggins of the champion Yankees, who are currently involved in their annual spring calisthenics, peers over his gold rimmed glasses at you and frankly admits that his ball club probably isn't as strong in all respects as it was a year ago.

Then Mr. Huggins, who is about as heroic looking in his drab, plainly tailored vices as an order of French onion soup, reminds you that his ball club was exactly 106 points stronger than any ball club in the American League last year—these figures representing the mathematical margin which separated the New Yorks and the second-place Trojans last October.

Continuing, Mr. Huggins—who is talking as he scans the stock reports in the late afternoon extras, being an investor of no small consequence—gives you to understand that his Yankees can afford to slip somewhat, say 50 points, and yet be formidable enough to win their fourth championship, a feat which has not been accomplished by a major league team since Gibraltar was a pebble.

WILL STAND PAT Huggins plans to stand pat on his veteran lineup. Schang and Hoffman will do the runt of the catching. Hoyt, Pennock, Jones, Shawkey and Bush will again be the slab dependables. Pipp, Ward, Scott and Dugan will form the infield and Ruth, Witt and Meusel the outfield.

However, as the season unfolds itself Huggins may be compelled to make slight or major changes in this set program. Scott, the Iron Man, is no longer a great shortstop, though he is still of major league caliber. Scott may slip; if he does he will go to the bench. This is no secret in the Yankee camp. Scott realizes his situation perfectly.

Who will go to short if a change must be made? Huggins has three men he can shoot into the breach, two vets and a colt. McNally, formerly of the Red Sox, and Johnson, late of the White Sox, are dependable, if not brilliant. They are the type of players who will do in a pinch.

GAZELLA GREAT PROSPECT Gazella is the youngster, a college man from Lafayette. If you read the football news you will remember him as the on the great Lafayette eleven two years back. In action Gazella reminds you of Donie Bush who the midget first came up to join Detroit in the faraway days of Tiger grandeur. Huggins thinks he is a great prospect.

As to pitchers, Huggins has 17 in camp. Probably 10 will be kept. But the brunt of the work will fall on the shoulders of the five veterans who, among them, turned in 92 of the 98 Yankee victories last year. Piggas, a right hander, who was with the club last year, and Roettger, another right hander but with limited experience, are the prize prospects among the youngsters.

Witt, of course, is the only outfielder whose position as a regular whose position as a regular is in any way imperiled. The Yankees paid a lot of jack to Louisville for Combs, leading outfielder in the American Association last season. Combs has a weak arm. Witt's chief weakness is a weak arm. All other things being equal Witt will hold his job, with Combs standing by as a reserve.

RIVAL CLUBS FEAR "RABBIT"

"RABBIT" MARAVILLE

That Rabbit Maraville, star shortstop, will not be a member of the Pittsburgh Nationals the coming season is a certainty, yet his final destination is a matter of doubt.

Shortly after the close of the season Barney Dryfus placed Maraville on the block, but as yet no club has offered sufficient inducements to cause the Pittsburgh owner to part with his midget shortstop.

Working Out The Kinks

NEW ORLEANS.—Wally Schang and Babe Ruth are on the Yank disabled list. Schang has a fractured rib and the Babe is laid up with "walking flu," a mild comeback from the attack he had at Hot Springs.

TAMPA, Fla.—The Nationals beat the Milwaukee Brewers 8 to 2 at Palmetto yesterday, three pitchers showing up well. If the weather permits, the Nationals will meet the St. Louis Cardinals today.

ORLANDO, Fla.—More trouble for the Reds. Eppa Rixey now is laid up with an injured knee. It has been learned that Eppa will not be able to make the long East Coast trip starting Monday. The Reds won their first exhibition game of the season Friday, defeating the Columbus Senators 6 to 1.

SAVANNAH, Ga.—Rochester pounded Cole for four runs in the eighth and tied the tally, but Cole started a rally in the ninth with two out and the Tigers won 6 to 4.

WINTERHAVEN, Fla.—Willie Kamm's batting in the ninth inning won the Chicago White Sox 5 to 4 victory over the Giants.

LOS ANGELES.—Chicago's Cubs nipped the Vernon Tigers for an 8 to 7 victory yesterday. Arnold Stutz, Cub outfielder and Otto Vogel are out of the line-up with injuries. Stutz has a broke ankle and Vogel a badly jammed wrist.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Frank Brower, utility Indian outfielder, has shown such good form that he may land a regular job. The Indians were prevented by rain from playing yesterday.

AS A MATTER OF FACT

Being a Criticism of the Just and the Unjust in the World of Professional and Amateur Sports by HAROLD GARDNER

Johnny Newton, of Mansfield writes me a rather interesting letter regarding Johnny Horvath. He is of course enthusiastic regarding the chances of his protegee and calls to mind the decisive beating he gave Joe Parolina which ended in a kayo in the second round. It is certain that Parolina is a clever boy and therefore it is doubly sure that Horvath is far above the average. He has, however, a handicap in his weight—139 pounds, not heavy enough for the lightweight division, among especially clever boys, and nine times out of ten handicapped in getting on important bouts. He can however win the junior lightweight championship, now held by Johnny Dundee, and this is just exactly what Newton is grooming him for. He is going steadily along towards that goal, and has a fine record to back him up. He has proved his quality in forty battles and in the list are quite a few good ones. Newton, himself a boxer, tells how he first got acquainted with Horvath. He was training for a bout with Pat Carney—this was a couple of years ago—when Horvath made his appearance—and made known his strong, young fellow, with about the right proportions and he gave him a trial. He weighed at that time 143 pounds. Newton trained the lad and got him down to 130 which was his most advantageous weight. His first battle was with Jimmy Alby, of Toledo. He easily defeated him.

thought he could do better and he left Newton. His new manager put him against boys entirely too heavy for him and he naturally got the worst of it; he began to retrograde. During the time he met Joe Peppers, Richie Colbert, Shifty Dandom, and a host of others. He won eight, lost three and fought four draws. He came back to Newton. Newton trained him in the right manner. He was soon at his old fighting weight.

HIS PRESENT CAREER

In a short time he had met and defeated eight clever boys. Then came the redoubtable Richards, who Johnny had turned back twice. For this they call him the Mansfield cave-man or reduce him to the ranks of the ordinary. Word comes from his training camp that he is getting into the best condition. It is also true that Wagner has heard of the hard hitting Johnny Horvath and is taking no chances. By the way, this will be the first time that this eastern boxer has ever displayed his ability in the middle west. He will finish his training at the Richland athletic club, of Mansfield.

If Horvath succeeds in gaining a decisive victory over the eastern boy it will mean what Newton thinks and has been working so long to realize, a battle for the junior championship of the world. This boxing game is a hard one to understand. Wagner should go in an odds on favorite, for he has not about all the best of the lightweight division successfully. But what of the young fellow that's striving for a place in the sun? Wednesday night tells the tale.

Field Meet To Be Held In April

OTTAWA — A field meet, in which Putnam-co high school pupils will take part, will be held at the fair grounds this spring, probably the fair grounds this spring, probably decided upon.

First plans were formulated Saturday at a meeting of school superintendents, held in the office of County Superintendent George J. Kelnath.

Superintendents named on the committee include Earl F. Smith, Columbus Grove; W. A. Amstutz, Leipsic; C. C. Romaker, Continent; Edwin Sommers, Ottawa, and C. W. McCleary, Vaughnsville.

The meet will follow, in every particular, the event of a similar kind held last spring.

First Annual Y Banquet Thursday

Plans are practically completed for the first annual athletic banquet to be given Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. in honor of the teams of the Industrial Bowling and Basketball league, and the Y. M. C. A. basketball team.

L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletics director, will be the main speaker of the evening. He will give a talk on athletics.

Roland Mikesell, Lima tenor, will lead the singing at the gathering, while Johnny Creps, former Ohio State cheer leader, will lead the cheers.

"Tom" Pearman, "Y" general secretary, will preside at the meeting and will present the cups to the Deisel-Wemmer team, winners of this year's Industrial league, and the Lake Erie team, winners of last year's league race. James E. Morton, manager of the Lima Board of Commerce, was asked to do the presenting, but he has been forced to refuse because of being rushed in his work before his resignation becomes effective on April 1.

Speeches by the captains of the Industrial league teams will be a feature of the program, which is expected to be very interesting.

BIG STAKE EVENTS AT RANDALL TOTAL $43,000

CLEVELAND—(By Associated Press)—North Randall's second Grand Circuit meeting from Monday, August 11 to Thursday, August 21, inclusive, will be the longest stretch of Grand Circuit racing ever staged here and for the largest sum of money ever raced for here.

The total sum offered for stake events is $43,000. This, together with the purses of the late closing events, to be announced later, will total close to $100,000.

The two big features of the card are the $13,000 Rainy Day stake for two-year-old trotters on Thursday, August 14, and the $10,000 Stallion stake for three year old trotters on Wednesday, August 20.

In addition to these rich events are three new stakes, the Cleveland, the Emery and the Century, each worth $3,000.

The complete stake card for the ten days, announced today, follows: August 11, the Free City 2:09 pacers $3,000.

August 12, the North Randall 2:13 trotters $3,000.

August 13, the Sportsman, three year old trot 2:10 class $3,000.

August 14 the Rainy Day stake estimated value $13,000.

August 15 the Cuyahoga 2:07 class trot $3,000.

August 16 no stakes.

August 18 the Cleveland 2:07 pacers $3,000.

August 19 the Emery 2:15 trotters $3,000.

August 20, the Stallion stake, estimated value $10,000.

August 21 the Century 2:03 trotters $3,000.

RACES AT KALAMAZOO

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—The six early closing events for the Grand Circuit race meeting to be held over the Recreation Park track in this city, the week of July 21, has drawn a combined entry list of 136 horses, an average of 32 nominations to each class. The combined value of the races listed aggregates $22,000 including the $10,000 Exchange Club purse for 2:08 trotters, which has 36 entries.

In most of the classes the number of nominations is considerably heavier than in former years.

PIETRO CORRI

Comes now Pietro Corri, an Alpine mountaineer of Italian-Belgian stock, who yearns for a chance to win the world's heavyweight championship.

On Pietro Corri's manly chest is depicted in lurid hues a prize ring showing a fighter being counted out.

"That's a sketch of my last knockout," explains Pietro—failing to specify whether he or his opponent is being counted out.

CLEVELAND.—In the final basketball game between these two schools this season, Western Reserve defeated Case School by a score of 40 to 20.

NOTE ENJOYED THE FIGHT

"Give him another poke in the jaw," yelled John Hotz of Delphos, to Abe Goldstein, who was pummeling Joe Lynch at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Now John is an ardent fight fan, and also a radio fiend. Distance made no difference to Hotz. He got into a prospective ring-side seat and enjoyed the show, and this more the announcer called "Abe lands a hard left to the chin," the more Abe got excited. It was sport personified. No use of traveling several hundred miles when the same effect was the result at his own son's house. "Goldstein won the fight on clean left hand jabs," said Syl Hotz, son of John. No mistake; it was some battle.

U. S. IS LEADER IN HIGHWAY DEVELOPMENT

MANY ROADS ARE INTERESTING

Longest Paved Motor Way is Found Along Pacific Coast

FOREIGN STREETS VARIED

China Claims Dirtiest Thorofare and Spain the Cleanest

If proof were necessary that the United States, which, thanks to the development of the motor vehicle, is passing thru the most intensive period of highway development in the history of the world, is building roads that surpass in quality anything of the kind constructed since the days of the Roman Empire, that proof is to be found in abundance.

It exists not only in the quality and quantity of American highways but in the development of road-building methods and materials. The road builders of this country have not only outstripped their ancient predecessors in the use of the most ancient materials but are getting better results with greater speed, less labor and lower cost.

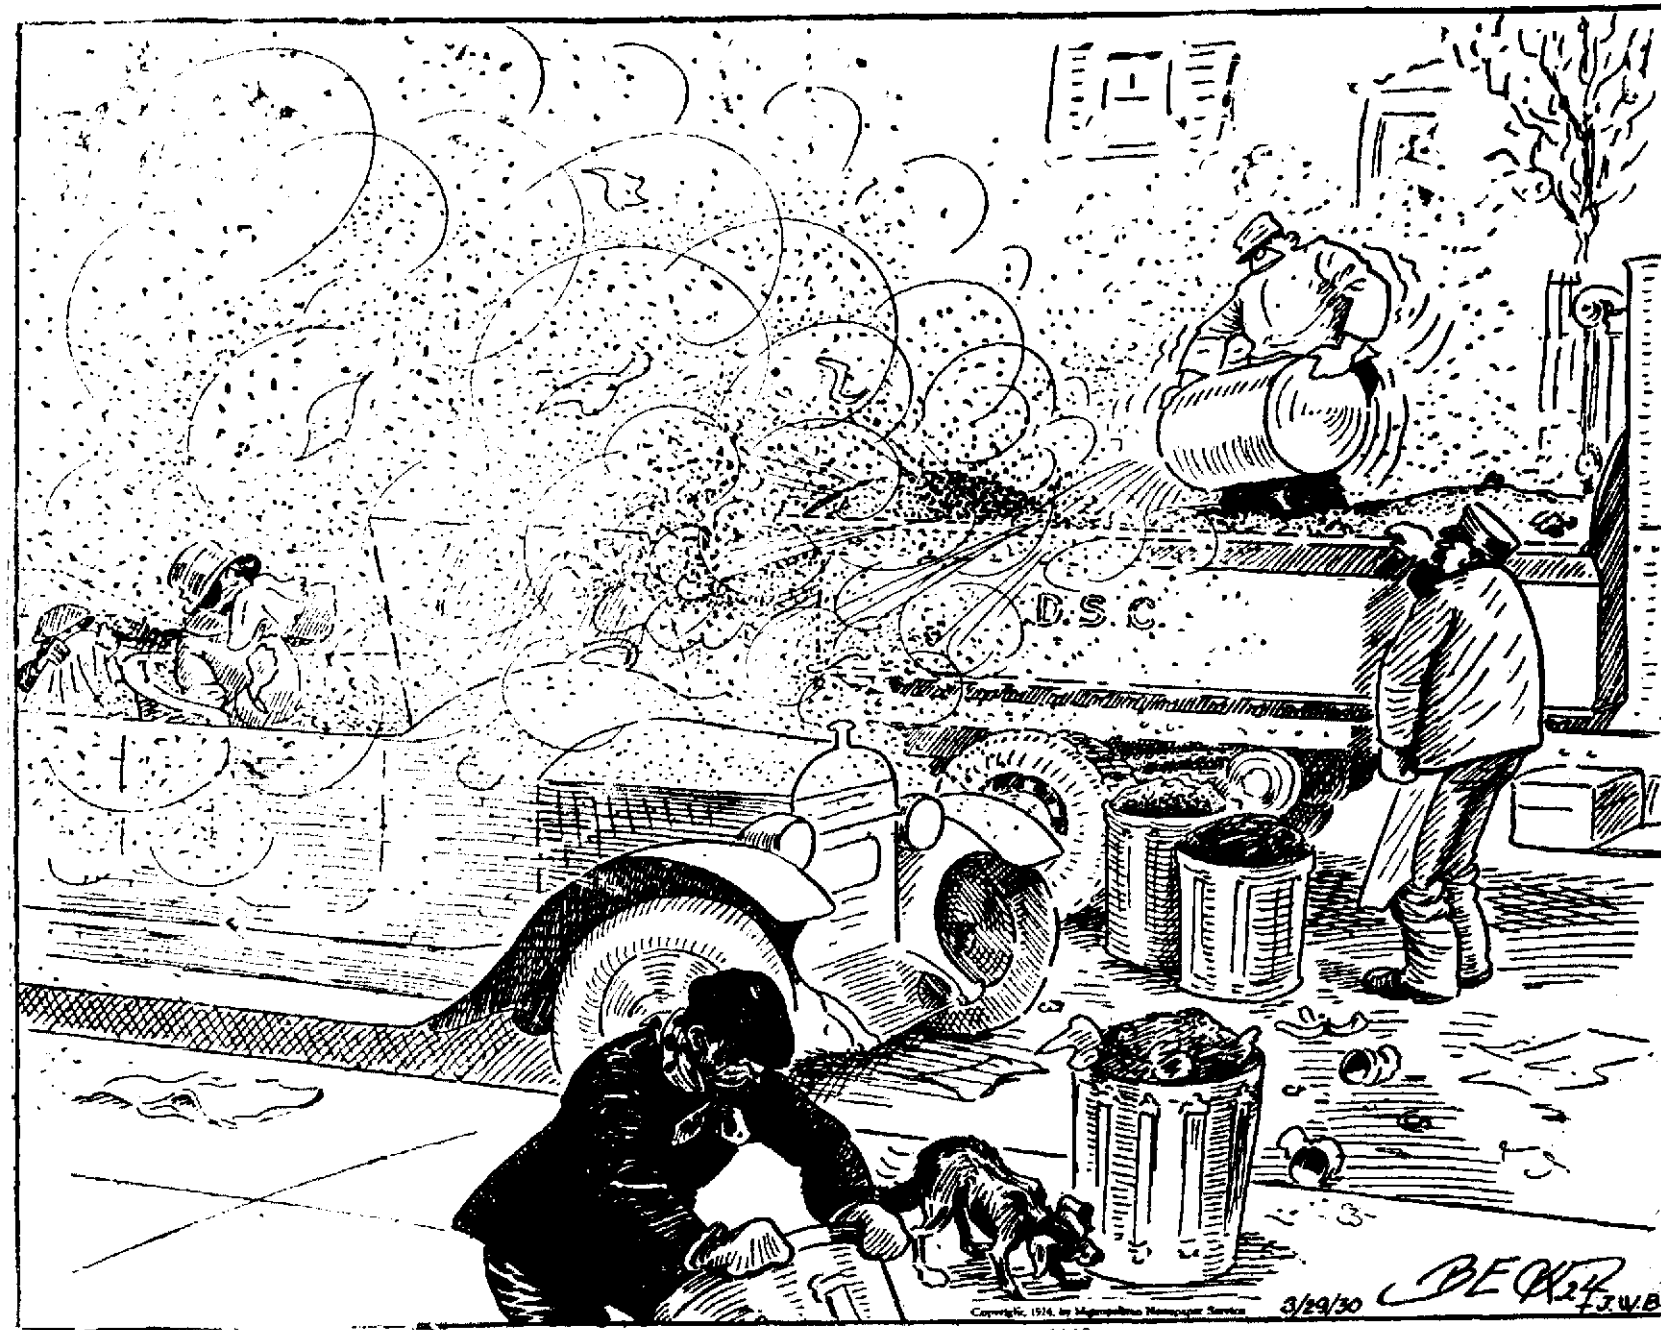

Motorists may be interested in knowing that in the United States are now to be found some of the most distinctive as well as the most unique and interesting highways in existence. The United States possesses the longest paved motor road in the world, the Pacific Highway, running from Vancouver, B. C., along the Pacific coast to the Mexican border, a distance of 1,476 miles. In this country also is to be found the highest motor road in the world—that on Pike's Peak in Colorado, 14,109 feet above the level of the sea. Nevada, Colorado Springs, Col., 6,340 feet above sea level is the highest paved street in the world and Market-st Philadelphia, Pa. the widest.

SHORTEST ROAD

The shortest and narrowest paved motor road in existence is likewise American. It traverses Smith's Island, one of the little islands in the lower Chesapeake Bay, near Christfield, Md. This road is less than a mile long and is just wide enough to permit the passage of one motor car at a time. At intervals there are sidings, or "passing tracks," where the cars pass each other.

In this country is to be found not only the most unique paved street in the world, but three of the world's most beautiful and famous paved mountain roads—the Columbia River Highway in Oregon, the Storm King Highway which overlooks the Hudson River and "America's Valley of the Rhine" from the Peekskill Mountains in New York, and the Lacka-

Buick Is Given High Praise By Its Many Users

From far away India comes testimony of Buick's all-around serviceability Lieutenant-Colonel J. D. Dean Drummond, Dymock Estate, Vaidipuriar P. O., South India writes: "Some months ago I asked you to supply me with a car. I gave you the maximum figure I was prepared to pay and left the choice to yourselves. You sold me a Buick Four and I write to tell you that I cannot find anything wrong with it from any point of view."

"It takes most hills on high. It holds the roads well when let out on the flat, and a child could drive it. I have done a fair mileage and up to date have not had to touch it, with the exception of adding petrol and water."

Hundreds of other letters from similar satisfied owners from all points in the world have been received by Buick officials.

Luxuriously Smooth and Silent at Every Speed!

WHEN they set out to design this new 4-door model, Cleveland engineers knew that noise, vibration, and drumming were distinctly noticeable in most moderately priced closed cars.

They also knew that in such a car, scientific engineering could produce the luxuriously smooth and quiet operation that is characteristic of the heaviest and most expensive sedans.

In collaboration with Fisher, they produced a body that is a marvel of structural rigidity.

The framework is clear second-growth ash, carefully seasoned and solidly reinforced. The body proper is built up of heavy, securely anchored sheet steel panels. The soft ceiling has no acoustic properties.

Thus were drumming and rattling and squeaking eliminated.

Vibration was conquered at its source—in the power plant; conquered so completely and absolutely that even the driver is never conscious of it.

Nowhere between the traffic crawl and the full throttle gait is there a speed which is not luxuriously smooth and free from labor—particularly so on the hills.

Arrange for a demonstration. We promise you a ride which for sheer unblemished luxury, literally cannot be duplicated except in the heaviest and most expensive closed cars.

Genuine balloon tires (3. x 5 1/2) optional, $70 extra. Cleveland chassis design permits their use without affecting road, frame, or fender clearance.

Oakland Finish Given A Severe Test Last Week

Citizens strolling along Market-st. last week were surprised when they looked into the windows of the Bryan Motor Sales Co., local Oakland dealer.

Very seriously a salesman of the company was holding lighted matches to the sides of a new Oakland touring car. Deliberately and methodically he did it, smiling all the while at the exclamations of surprise of those who stood about the car.

After he had held matches to dozens of different places on the car, he picked up an ordinary cloth and wiped off the slight discolorations as a man would wipe dust off his newly shined shoes.

The test was one of ten conducted by the firm to demonstrate how impervious to injury is the new Oakland-Duco finish which is an exclusive feature of the 1934 Oakland cars.

Oakland cars are being subjected to tests that would completely ruin an ordinary finish, such as dropping hot tar, ammonia, sulphuric and nitric acids, mud, dirt, lime, cement, boiling water, and the chemical contents of a fire extinguisher on the body finish.

Flint Forty Is New Light Six, 48 Horsepower

The Flint Forty, a new light six, is a car of 115 inches wheelbase and the touring model is exceptionally roomy. A 48 horse power engine supplies the motive force. One of its features is the new four-wheel brake.

The four-wheel brakes on the Flint Forty are a radical departure from the conventional internal expanding or external contracting type. Instead of brake bands in the form of circle, pinchtype shoe brakes are used on both the front and rear wheels.

The shoes, one inside and one outside of the brake drums, are mounted on the two arms of a fork which in turning squeezes the shoes together, with the brake drum between. The shoes cover only about one-fourth of the circumference of the brake drums, and it is claimed that this type of brake will not overheat. The matter of relining is also much simplified, the entire brake mechanism being simple and easy to get at.

The front brakes can be set, to follow the rear wheel brakes in action, and both brakes are connected to a foot pedal of the convenient type. A hand lever connecting with the entire system serves as a parking brake.

2,000 Miles On $30, Record Of One Ford Coupe

LINCOLN, Neb. —Driving a Ford coupe 2,000 miles from Los Angeles to Lincoln, George Beha, Jr. found his running expenses for the trip approximately $30. This included gasoline, oil and tires.

Less than six days were required for the long journey over mountain ranges and desert trails.

Beha, who is 19 years old, ate and slept in the car, starting out each day before 4 a. m. He carried a camping outfit with him but did not use it because of the cold.

Since July 7, last, Beha has driven the coupe more than 8,000 miles covering the Pacific Coast States from north to south.

The time in which the trip was made is close to a record for the Los Angeles stretch.

35,000 Vehicles Sold Last Year, Olds Announces

Approximately 35,000 motor vehicles were sold by the Olds Motor Works last year, according to figures recently given out by the company. This total aggregates about $35,000,000 in retail value.

While a large number of cars were driven overland from the factory and many were shipped by boat, 7,793 freight cars were required to move the finished product from the factory to points of destination.

Adding together the number of carloads of raw materials and semi-finished products brought to the plant and the car-loads of finished products shipped, gives a total of 11,171 freight cars, equivalent to more than 235 trainloads of 50 cars each.

The freight bills which the Olds Motor Works paid the railroads during 1933 for incoming materials alone amounted to approximately $428,000.

"Price Tendency Is Sharply Upwards"

A NUMBER of the leading automobile manufacturers, including several building six-cylinder cars in the thousand dollar class, have recently increased their prices. Certainly this indicates the present tendency.

It is our fixed policy to give the public the biggest possible dollar's worth, to operate on a reasonable margin of profit and to avoid price increases. We cannot promise, however, that the present low prices for Paiges and Jewetts can long be continued.

We have seen many indications of a shortage of six-cylinder cars in the popular priced field during the coming Spring. Attempting to give the biggest dollar's worth of motor car in our price classes, we have built the most modern and efficient factory of its kind for the exclusive production of the Jewett. And Paige production, increased 300%, is now going on again in the big plant that made Paige Quality Reputation.

Every possible effort has been made to be certain that we can supply quality cars at reasonable prices. But no manufacturer can make during April, May and June all the cars needed during those months.

The wise buyer should recognize that there is likely to be a Spring shortage of desirable makes of motor cars and that the price tendency is sharply upwards.

AUTO CLUB PLANS ANNOUNCED

Fourfold Program Outlined by Manager Heffner

PAVING PROPOSALS BACKED

Linking of Alger and Harding Highway Discussed

Accomplishments of a fourfold character, were outlined Saturday by James L. Heffner, manager of the Lima Automobile club in discussing the road program of the organization in Allen and adjoining counties for 1934.

The club means to cooperate actively with county and city officials and township trustees in the construction and maintenance of roads. YEAR'S PROGRAM

The program for the year includes: Paving the Lima Ottawa road from the end of West to the Putnam-co line.

Shortening the road connecting Alger with the Harding highway in Harding-co by a half mile and paving the section.

Paving the road from McGuffey to the Harding Highway.

Actively pushing the extension paved roads in other counties, as to connect important towns. Alger, Findlay, and Harding-co commissioners are interested in the proposition to link the town to the Harding highway, Heffner said.

The present road extends a half mile east from the village and then turns north. It is planned to open a new road leading directly north from the village.

MEETING PLANNED

It is planned to lay the proposal before citizens and farmers interested at a meeting to be held soon.

Both villages are important trading centers for the surrounding region, a vast section almost exclusively devoted to onion raising.

Another step planned by the club is the extension of sign posting along the roads.

In this connection it is planned to erect a large sign opposite central fire station, warning motorists not to park there. When cars are standing opposite the station they interfere with fire apparatus coming out of the station.

WOMAN SUFFERING FROM FLOOD EFFECT ENDS LIFE

HAMILTON—The disastrous flood of 1913 claimed another victim today. When Mrs. Amelia Wagner, 30, wife of Otto Wagner, died of poison self-administered.

During the height of the 1913 flood, the house in which Mrs. Wagner was living was swept away. Her sister and brother were drowned, while she and her grandfather clung to the roof of the building as it was carried down the river near Venice, 10 miles from Hamilton, the house was caught in a tree and finally Mrs. Wagner and her grandfather were rescued.

She never recovered from the nervous shock and Coroner Cook, who was her family physician, attributed her act to this fact.

SCOUT COURT OF HONOR TO AWARD MERIT BADGES

He asks motorists who may be stopped in such manner to insist on being taken to a police station, unless the officer can show proper authority.

THIRD YEAR CLASS TO GIVE PLAY

Central Juniors' Event to Aid Class' Annual Hop

FOSTORIA BAND IS COMING

Mirror Staff Busy, Paper Seeks Honors in Contest

Dramatic interest will reach its highest pitch Friday evening at Central high when the junior class presents its annual play in the school auditorium. "Am I Intruding" by Frederick G. Johnson is the play which the third year class will interpret.

As this is the last school play of the year unusual interest is manifested. The juniors will use the funds derived to finance the annual junior hop and the class is unanimous in helping to make the ticket sales a success.

The entire play was rehearsed Saturday morning and from outward appearance it should be a grand success. Misses Isora Skumaker and Virginia Warner, directors of the play, believe that the play will be as good as ever presented by a school body.

What has been called "the best high school band in the United States" will give a concert in Central high auditorium on Thursday, April 10. The Fostoria band is the organization that carries the title and as it will appear here at that time for the Rotary district convention, arrangements have been made to have the band play for Central people.

R. E. Offenbauer, principal of Central high, stated that sale of tickets and arrangements for the band's program will be in charge of the H-Y club. Members of that club will start the sale soon. Bob King, president, says.

The senior class will present Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield" April 17 in the school auditorium to make funds for the annual memorial. It was announced by Mr. Offenbauer Friday.

This will be the first time that "David Copperfield" has appeared in Lima and for that reason it is expected that the picture will be put over with much success.

Pledges for next year's lecture course are still very slow in coming in, reports from the various home rooms teachers showed Friday. At the last number of this year's course 280 pledges were signed.

School students were asked to take pledges from the various home rooms last week and the number of signed pledges is now only 458. As 800 pledges are needed to assure the success of the venture, Central students will have to get busy, according to Mr. Offenbauer.

Robert B. Shaffer, editor of the Annual Mirror, says that most of the "copy" for the book is in and that picture work has been practically completed by the photographers. Football and track snapshots were taken Friday afternoon and evening.

The advertising quota has been oversubscribed by three pages and that department will keep up the work in the hope that the publication will be an even greater financial success.

At a mass meeting Friday afternoon Prof. Offenbauer emphasized the fact that students should "get to work" and pass their subjects as a matter of loyalty and patriotism to their city. He pointed out that some subjects cost from $45 to $50 per pupil, per subject and that failures are a serious burden on the taxpayers of the city.

Prof. Mark Evans of the music department is very busy these days rounding up his bevy of chirpers for the annual high school Elateddoo which will be held in Memorial hall, April 25.

According to Evans the girls' portion of the singing is well fortified but the boys seem to be taking little interest.

Attempts to gain fame are being made by the school Mirror these days. Ohio State university is conducting a contest for high school papers in which the paper having the best five successive issues will receive a silver loving cup. The drug store.

Mirror will be represented in this contest.

A story appearing on the front page of the March 14 issue will be entered in the feature story contest of the Scholastic Editor, official organ of the Central Inter-scholastic Press association.

Due to the resignation of Lloyd Housely tryouts for freshmen editor of the Mirror were held Friday. Those who submitted news stories were Donald Armstrong, Robert East, and Bernard Cohen. The editor will be chosen from these.

On March 22 the Blue Triangle club will hold a "Pamper" sale in some downtown store window. The girls are already busy getting articles for the sale which they hope will be a success.

Plans for the annual debate of the senate which will be given soon are practically completed. Joe Fritz, president, says. Four debaters have been chosen with two alternates. The debaters are Douglas Dole, Louis Pierce, Durbin Knigely and Joe Fritz. Alternates are Morris Kaplan and William Stanyer.

These debaters will get together and choose the bill and thus make it a surprise all around.

A committee to write the senate in the Annual Mirror was elected at Wednesday's meeting. They are Franklin E. Doan, chairman, Douglas Dole and John Nice.

Three interesting talks were given by members of the Troubadourian Dramatic club at its regular meeting Wednesday. Miriam Kamerer reviewed the mystery drama, "The Cat and the Canary." Frederick Roberts gave a talk on a comparison of the old actors with the new while Mary Kerr contrasted the old stage with the modern.

A one-act farce, "The Great Doughnut Corporation" will be given Wednesday. Included in the cast are William Bowyer, Merle Morrison, Ray Eversole, Constance Mayer, Frances Christen, Pauline Gans and Janis Hammack.

Possibility that a fine collection of color prints will be brought to Central high for a week was expressed by Herbert Wise, president of the Art club. He appointed a committee composed of Mary Beery, Darrell Grove, Pauline Weadock and Donald Stapleton to arrange plans for the exhibit.

Attorney T. R. Hamilton gave an interesting talk before the Astronomy talk Wednesday afternoon on his impressions while making a trip thru Yerkes observatory. It was one of the best programs of the year, members declared.

BRITISH PREMIER FOUGHT WAR

MacDonald Once Ostracised Politically by Stand

DESERTED, EVEN, BY LABOR

Expelled by Club and Refused Conveyance by Sailors

LONDON — (Associated Press) — Ramsay MacDonald as prime minister is a striking testimonial to the public's infinite capacity for changing its mind. No man in Britain was more disliked by his countrymen than was MacDonald in the heated, emotional years of the war. From start to finish he was against the conflict, and he never compromised with his principles.

Nor was MacDonald satisfied with passive resistance. With all the fire that is in him he violently and actively opposed the war. In consequence he lost his political position and was even expelled from his golf club.

OPPOSITION GROWS

The longer the war went on the more bitter and active was MacDonald's opposition to it. At the beginning he found the majority of labor members against him, so he resigned the chairmanship of the party. When Labor later joined the Lloyd George coalition, he held aloof. In 1917 he tried to go to Russia, but members of the National Seamen's and Firemen's Union refused to man the ship should he come aboard.

A few months later he planned to attend a conference at Stockholm which the Bolsheviks proposed as a step towards peace parleys with the working classes of the central powers. The government refused to give him a passport.

The same year he was one of the moving forces in a conference at Leeds which resolved to seek establishment of workers' and sailors' councils in the manner of the revolting Russians.

The "khaki election" just after the war—that wild, flag-waving parliamentary campaign with its hot and ardent cries of "Hang the Kaiser"—was disastrous to MacDonald. He was badly beaten at the polls, and lost his seat in the commons. The Labor stronghold of Woolwich turned him down. For four years he remained on the outside, looking in, until the voters of Aberavon sent him back to Westminster in 1922.

"WILD MEN" HELP

Helped by the "wild men from the Clyde," as the more extreme elements of the Scottish labor delegation are called, MacDonald regained the leadership of his party, but only by a narrow majority. From the opposition benches this man, who had attracted little attention in his former parliamentary speeches, revealed as the days went on the gifts for debate that are looked for in leaders. More and more it became certain that if Labor came to power MacDonald would be prime minister.

So it is. Politically he has come back. But he is still out of the modest golf club at his native village of Lossiemouth. One heard interesting stories on that subject as soon as it became certain the Conservative regime would fall and Labor would take charge of the government.

It was said the canny ex-clubmates of MacDonald adopted a resolution just before Christmas week revoking the order that had expelled him from the fairways of Lossiemouth during the war. Then, the story went, a delegation of clubmembers came down to London to ask their "old friend" to rejoin the club, and let the home folks see him swinging woods and irons during his Christmas holidays.

The substance of the reply MacDonald is said to have made to this invitation might be summed up as "nothing doing."

At any rate, MacDonald didn't play any golf while he was at Lossiemouth last month. And the more "plus fours" around the house and on his walks in the country, he never entered the club house or even went so far as to practice putting.

IMPORTANT NEWS CONCERNING THE RETIRING OF BUSINESS MAN

An announcement current in business circles that Henry Schwarz, owner of the Harvard Clothes Shop, corner Market and Union-sts was quitting business in Lima was verified yesterday. Henry Schwarz is one of Lima's pioneer, successful clothiers and furriers for men having been in business here for the past sixteen years. The Harvard has built a wonderful reputation for honest and upright dealings in Northwestern Ohio. The fact that his popular store is going out of business will be welcome news to the buying public of Lima and vicinity as this means the unloading of thousands of dollars worth of good, clean merchandise right at the beginning of the season. Mr. Henry Schwarz stated to a representative that it is his wish to dispose of his stocks so that he can turn the keys of his business over to the owner. It is with extreme regret that I leave this wonderful city and home where I have gained thousands of friends but my lease expires soon and I must dispose of all my goods at once.

Prepare for the biggest bargain hunt in years and don't buy anything until you see our announcement in this paper soon.

FAN FODDER FOR RADIO FANS

By A. H. S.

It was discussed and unanimously voted by the members of the Amateur Radio club of Lima, a branch of the American Radio Relay League, to extend the club to include the broadcast listener. Although the name has not yet been changed it probably will soon so as to include both factions. The purpose of the club will be to lessen interference and to bring about a weekly meeting of those interested.

Lima has produced more than its share of men who have become prominent in radio. N. B. West, designer of equipment aboard ship "Bowdoin" operated an amateur station here; Leroy M. Clausen formerly operated the transmitter at Lima high; Robert C. Hazy was a Lima amateur before the war; C. E. Nichols is at the head of the operating division of the American Radio Relay League for Ohio and R. Stolzenbach is now operating the broadcasting station of Wittenburg College.

Interference may be caused by presence of an electrical device in the neighborhood. A defective or light or leaky power transformer causes a radiation of waves which results in a disturbance. If this disturbance keeps up for any length of time it is possible to trace it down by using the principle of the radio compass.

FRIENDLY RELATION

The amateur of radio telegraphy is here to stay. Why not a more friendly relationship with the broadcast listener? There are thousands of amateurs compared to almost six hundred broadcast stations, which should show that compared to the broadcast band the amateur is considerably more congested.

The amateurs claim their national organization requested that there be a quiet period established, to prevent interference with a broadcasting wave, thinking this would relieve all complaint. But complaints have come in heavier than ever before although these hours have been observed to the minute.

To afford a closer relationship the amateur must get acquainted with the listener and they should intermingle with each other. This the amateur is only too glad to do.

At the last meeting of the Lima Amateur Radio club this was discussed and put to a vote, which resulted in that the broadcast listener would be permitted to enter the membership.

C. E. Nichols, president of the Lima Amateur Radio club, extends a hearty invitation to those who wish to learn more of the amateur, receiving apparatus, code, and those who think that a closer relationship should exist among us.

FROM GOWNS TO PARASOLS AND HATS PARIS TURNS TO OSTRICH PLUMES

(BY MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK (Special)—Birds of a feather ought to flock together and draw up a petition, urging fashion to place some restriction on the use of their plumage.

For Paris has suddenly gone mad about feathers. And the way she is using them is going to make heavy drains on the winged population.

Gowns and capes are composed almost entirely of misty flues. And the way hats, frocks, parasols, lingerie, clippers, garters and even handkerchiefs are using it is appalling.

But it isn't only ostrich plumes. Even the gentle little pigeon is being stripped of his soft, opalescent feathers.

Pigeon breasts make a much handsomer and certainly a more novel collar for a gray silk or satin outfit than the fluffy skin of the wily gray fox.

And now that feathers are being used for costumes, fur is showing that it can be original and is appearing on hats.

The most striking hat recently shown in Paris was a large leghorn shape, faced underneath with leopard skin and with a bow of leopard on the left side of the crown.

Mrs. C. W. Sullivan, W. Fourth-st., welcomed the members of the Keola club to her home Thursday afternoon. In a contest held, Mrs. W. L. Stokesbury and Mrs. Clarence Schneider were successful. At 4:30 o'clock a three-course tea was served by the hostess. Appointments were of green and red, the club's colors.

Clara Kimball Young Is Stellar Attraction at Faurot

COMING IN PERSON

New Orpheum Theatre
Seeks Favor With
"Buzzin' Around"

This week at the Faurot bids fair to satisfy in the matter of novelties. Monday comes Clara Kimball Young, erstwhile movie star, who has forsaken the silver-screen for the more realistic glories of the footlights. She will be seen here in an opus by William Hurlbut, with the flagrant title "Trimmed in Scarlet." It is said to have pleased in London, where it had a two years' run, with the emotional actress Violet Vanbrugh in the titular role. The desire is uppermost in the minds of devotees of the movies, to see and hear the stars of the cinema world, with the consequence that from present indications, so far as the advance sale of seats is concerned, standing room at the Faurot, Monday night will be at a premium.

On Tuesday evening only Ruth St. Denis, with Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers, will be at the Faurot. Miss St. Denis, is, of course, figured among the most prominent "poetic" dancers living. Miss Ellen Douglas Mac Corquodale of the Huston Post says of the production: "One wonders at the patient delving into legendary lore, the diligent mastery of technique and the poetry of light, color and fabric out of which has been woven a tapestry that pictures every human instinct, passion and emotion." If the expressions are somewhat flowery, it is certain that this contemporary writer gives the production an exalted position, and it is unquestionably a splendid show. Beginning Thursday the much heralded picture "Scaramouche," will be shown at the Faurot. It will continue for four days, ending its engagement Sunday night. So it will be seen the Faurot will throw open its doors every evening with the exception of Wednesday, with attractions that are really worth while.

In line with the other entertainments the New Orpheum will offer "Buzzin' Around," as its attraction, opening Sunday afternoon. The Orpheum management promise that it takes precedent of none of the most meritorious attractions that have played that popular playhouse this season. It is a musical extravaganza, with a surfeit of clever comedians, singers, dancers and a bevy of pretty girls in the chorus who know how to sing and dance.

NOTED MOVIE STAR

To Make Lima Debut In Hurlbert Play

Few attractions are creating more interest at the present time among theatregoers than the return to the speaking stage of the emotional actress and screen star, Clara Kimball Young. She will be seen at the Faurot Monday evening in "Trimmed in Scarlet," a play in four acts, by William Hurlbut.

In its unfolding the play tells a story of a woman who thru an indiscretion in early youth fled abroad and altho she lived a life most circumspcct was adjudged by the people of her community wrongly. Returning after an absence of 19 years, she encounters many difficulties in proving her innocence but finally is rewarded.

Miss Young will be aided by a cast of players including Harry Bannister, Hugh Banks, C. T. Davis, Richard W. Temple, Alfred Rigali, Horace Pollock, Edna Buelow, Katherine Stewart, Alice V. Temple, Alice Hamilton, Mabel Rogers and Olive Meehan.

"BUZZIN' AROUND"

New Orpheum Show Played
Ft. Wayne 24 Weeks

"Buzzin' Around" is the title of the production that will be on the boards at the New Orpheum, beginning Sunday afternoon. It comes from Ft. Wayne where it played for 24 weeks.

The company which accompanies this show to Lima is said to be somewhat larger than that which is generally seen with productions that play at the New Orpheum. Especial emphasis is being placed on the chorus of the organization, even tho it is said that a clever cast has been gotten together.

A large number of musical numbers and vaudeville specialties, all presented with new stage settings and varied wardrobe, are booked as part of the production. Among the principals will be found Max Golden, Bobby Golden, Doc Dorman, Marvel Shackleton, Gilbert Van Alst, Ethyl McDonald, Alan McDonald, Fred Ford, Gladys Van and others. Usual added attractions will be seen during the week as usual and an entirely new bill will be presented Thursday matinee.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE

Holds Fort at Faurot
Afternoon and Night

A very entertaining vaudeville program is at the Faurot, it will be seen for the last times this afternoon and night. There is genuine merit in a majority of the acts, and the bill is replete with singing, acrobatics, juggling and good, clean comedy. The show is composed of thirty, in a marvelous exhibition of strength and acrobatic dexterity on the flying

"FOLLIES" BOOKED

Victory Theatre at Dayton
Gets Ziegfeld Show

After a run of sixteen months on Broadway and nine capacity weeks at the Colonial theatre, Chicago, a feat never before accomplished by any of the previous elaborate productions created by Florenz Ziegfeld, the Ziegfeld Follies plays at the Victory theatre, Dayton, for one week beginning Sunday night April with a matinee Saturday.

This is the seventeenth of a series and marks the climax of pretentious offerings staged by Ziegfeld. The Ziegfeld Follies is the show window of the amusement world. The big department stores put their latest models in their show windows and they are the ones the crowds see first, admire most and buy first. So the beautiful girls in the beauty market come to the "Follies" and are placed in the show windows of the stage where the multitudes may gaze on them. This unexcelled and latest edition is in twenty-four scenes, with one of the greatest casts in the history of stagemodern comprising such stellar names as William Collier, Jimmie Hussey, Martha Lorber, Evelyn Law, Alexander Gray, Davy Jones, Elsa Peterson, Patricia Reilly, Doris Vinton, Naomi Johnson, Hazel Webb, Hazel Jennings, and others, together with the eighty four Ziegfeld Beauties and the sixteen Tiller Girls among the greatest dancers of all time. The book and lyrics were written by at least a dozen authors and composers, among them being Gene Buck, Dave Stamper, Victor Herbert, Ring Lardner, and Rudolph Friml, and the entire production was staged by New Wayburn.

ETHEL BARRYMORE

In "The Laughing Lady" at Faurot, April 2

With the announcement that Ethel Barrymore will be seen at the Faurot opera house on Tuesday, April 2, in "The Laughing Lady," Miss Barrymore's large following here will probably arrange their activities to include witnessing the performance of this delightfully interesting Satire comedy.

"The Laughing Lady," written by Alfred Sutro was Miss Barrymore's principal vehicle of her season at the Longacre theatre, New York, year. The play is one of high comedy atmosphere in which Miss Barrymore is found at her best. The play is a masterpiece of playwright's art, a prominent feature in Mayfair's smartest set, is a brilliant cross-examiner, who represents her husband, that admissions forced from her that are not in These, however, sound true and sult in a verdict against her. It has no sooner been rendered than an error brings the unfortunate forces and the counsel together at intimate social affair. Of the last revenge and the perplexing plot precipitated by it, the major part of the play treats.

The names of Henry Daniell, his Clark, Lionel Pope, Edward M. Flynn, Virginia Chauvenet, Ethel trolpid and Jane Wheatley, among those selected for Miss Barrymore's support.

"Heritage of the Desert," Zane Grey Story, Is Play At Quilna

IT'S A PARAMOUNT

Majestic Presents "Brass" And Rialto, "The Love Bandit"

BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM
Photoplay fans should be able to find just the kind of picture they enjoy on silver sheets this week, so diversified are the various attractions.

"The Heritage of the Desert," a Paramount picturization of Zane Grey's thrilling western story, opens a week's stay at the Quilna this afternoon. It deals with American pioneering of forty-five years ago. Grey's thrilling western story, opens when the deserts of Utah and Arizona were being transformed into tillable ground. Ernest Torrence of "Covered Wagon" fame, Bebe Daniels, Noah Beery and Lloyd Hughes head the brilliant cast of players.

Marie Prevost and Monte Blue are featured characters in "Brass," a screen version of Charles G. Norris' novel of marriage and divorce appearing for the first three days of the week at the Majestic. In the supporting cast are Harry Myers, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss DuPont, Pat O'Malley and many other screen favorites. Wednesday brings Norma Talmadge in the Majestic screen in "The Forbidden City" to be followed on Friday by "Little Lord Fauntleroy" starring Mary Pickford.

The Rialto is offering "The Love Bandit" again today and Monday.

ZANE GREY PLAY

Epic of National Progress Is Quilna Picture

Those who saw the Paramount productions of Zane Grey's "To The Last Day" and "The Call of the Canyon" at the Quilna—and they were two of the strongest drawing cards that theatre has offered—will welcome the third of the Zane Grey series at this theatre this afternoon when "The Heritage of the Desert" opens a week's engagement. It is claimed that it will far surpass either of its predecessors in beautiful scenery, convincing plot and gigantic spectacles of life in the great open spaces.

The story is really an epic of national progress, for it deals with a battle between honest pioneers and desert badmen for the water rights of the Colorado river. This same fight which started 45 years ago is still going on. Seven states are right now waging a legal conflict at Washington for the possession of water rights to the Upper Colorado river in Southern Utah.

Hundreds of players including a tribe of Navajo Indians, lend picturesque to "The Heritage of the Desert." A cavalcade of 300 persons traveled on horseback from Flagstaff, Arizona, into these beautiful locations to record this great phase of American history. They suffered some of the same hardships as the people they imitated, braving desert heat and passing along roads built along the sheer face of the canyons.

Featured in this epic picture is a cast of principals of which even Paramount may well be proud. Bebe Daniels plays Mescal, a child of the desert; Ernest Torrence, of "Covered Wagon" fame is a desert pioneer; Noah Beery is the leader of the gunmen of the canyons and Lloyd Hughes is Jack Hare, a tenderfoot.

The spirit of the original tale was maintained thru the co-operation of the author with the director, Irving Willat. He visited locations and put at the disposal of the director and the cast his intimate knowledge of pioneer and Indian life. It has been said that no man has a wider understanding of the west and its people than Zane Grey.

"The Heritage of the Desert" will be preceded by Pathe News, Aesop's Fables and Charlie Murray's new comedy, "The Busybody."

"SCARAMOUCHE"

Much Talked of Film Play Coming to Faurot

"Scaramouche," acclaimed by many authorities as the best romance of the twentieth century, has been adapted to the screen by Rex Ingram and will be the attraction at the Faurot four days starting Thursday. Two performances will be given daily at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m., reserved seat sale opening Tuesday.

The character of "Scaramouche" as created by Rafael Sabatini is quite the most amazing in modern literature. In the romance he has two great motives—"for love of a woman and to avenge a friend." But that isn't all of it. Cynic, swordsman, strolling player, refugee, duelist, sometimes a man of wealth, sometimes a pauper, whose adventures

Sallie Pack, employee of Fair Deal Five & Ten, quarrels with her policeman sweetheart, Michael Curtis. He calls on her at Ma Brennan's, with whom she lives, but leaves the house when Sallie tells him that she never wants to see him again.

That night in a storm comes up and Sallie volunteers to bring from the line in the backyard some hand-embroidered linen being done up by Ma Brennan. As the girl starts down the yard, a crash shakes the earth and something strikes her a blow on the head.

When Sallie regains consciousness she finds herself in strange surroundings. She is in a wonderful bed in a richly furnished room. A French maid calls her Mademoiselle Alva, and tells her that Madame Copland, her mother, will be in shortly to see her. Sallie is mystified.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Ma Brennan! The Fair Deal!—Mike! Sallie sat bolt upright in bed stifling a scream. What in the world had happened to her? A host of recollections flashed across her mind but soft footsteps were approaching outside the door and she slipped back upon the pillow and closed her eyes.

She heard a slight tinkle as a tray was set down upon the stand, then there came the soft rustle of the window draperies and a brighter light shot across her lids and after that the footsteps approached her bed again. Sallie could feel the hot flush which had mounted in her cheeks but she forced herself to open her eyes once more and meet the gaze of those inscrutable ones.

"The chocolate, Miss Alva." The maid helped her sit up and rearranged her pillows. Madame will be here in a moment, she is enchanted that you have recovered consciousness so soon.

"So I've been sick, have I?" Sallie sipped her chocolate and eyed her companion over the rim of the cup.

"But yes, mademoiselle. You do not recall?" It was the shock to the head. The woman was smoothing the lace coverlet on the bed. "Do you feel nothing, Miss Alva?"

"I've got a fierce pain here." Sallie raised one hand to her head and the cup would have dropped from the other had the maid not taken it from her. She had encountered bandages—bandages which fitted down like a cap almost to her ears. Surprise overruled caution and she demanded: "What—what is it?"

"Three days, mademoiselle, since we have returned to New York from the hospital in that place. But you must not talk now. You will have no more chocolate."

Sallie shook her head dumbly and there was no simulation in the impishness with which for the second time she sank back on the pillow. The woman bathed her face and hands, brushed back the soft, golden hair about her forehead and then removed the tray, pausing for a moment in the doorway, but Sallie made no effort to detain her. She wanted to be alone, to think.

There had been the quarrel with Mike and the long, sleepless night with the hateful face of Madame Dorsey floating before her; then the dismal, rainy dawn and Ma Brennan's worry about the linen. She had gone out herself to the back yard to bring it in off the lines just as the fast express came thundering along on the tracks lying beyond the picket fence and then there had been a terrible crash—!

Slowly, painfully the girl's mind pieced together her last conscious impressions and now complete realization rushed upon her. The switch there at the junction only the length of two houses away, where the milk train was over-due and Hughie Robbins' pa drinking again. There had been a wreck and most of it had piled on her there in the back yard between the lines of wet clothes! She must have been mistaken for somebody else, but why had Ma Brennan let them take her away?

"My darling child!" There was a rustle of silk, a wave of the same perfume which had greeted her waking senses and two arms clasped her in tense embrace. "Alva, do you know me? Theresa told me that you had come to yourself at last! Alva, speak to your mother!"

Sallie's lids lifted slowly and she beheld a large figure in lavender draperies and a handsome face with steely gray eyes close to her own. "Mother," indeed! There was something in this that she didn't understand but it got her. "I got hurt?"

"Oh, my dear, there was a terrible wreck! But do you recall nothing of it?" The visitor seated herself on a low chair by the bed and took one of the girl's hands in both of hers. "We were on the train returning from French Lick Springs, asleep in our drawing room at the end of the car when the crash came! I shall spare you the horror of it for I, too, was buried unconscious in the debris, but oh, Alva! My thankfulness when I came to myself in the hospital and found you there beside me, even when the doctors told me—"

She paused shuddering and Sallie watching her closely saw that her face had whitened beneath its coating of cosmetics while a haggard line appeared about the narrow, firm lips. There wasn't any acting in this! Sallie started to speak and then checked herself suddenly, that maid had seemed to recognize her, also.

"Wasn't she—?" The girl's quick brain caught at the name which the older woman had used and in unconscious mimicry she imitated the accent. "Wasn't—Theresa—there, too?"

"Ah, yes, dear child. I see you are beginning to remember! She was in her berth just beyond our door and thrown clear of the wreckage, being merely bruised. But you have not asked about anyone else."

There was a half-playful chiding note in her tones which seemed forced, somehow, and Sallie gave a little start. She'd better watch her step now!

"Who else was with us?" she asked carefully.

"Why, your cousin, Wheeler." He was in the car ahead and fearfully shaken up but he rescued you, Alva! He saved your life!" She gestured toward the dressing table and for the first time Sallie noticed that there stood upon it the photograph of a man. It was encased in large, jeweled frame and the features were not very distinct in the subdued light, but he appeared to be youngish, with a long nose and something unpleasant about his eyes. Her own came back to the face bending above her and she saw she was being studied in turn with a curious tenseness.

"He—saved my life?" repeated Sallie and a mental picture rose before her of what she must have looked like in that sleazy kumono, all tangled up in Ma Brennan's wash. The little smile which quirked the corners of her mouth faded quickly, however, at the suddenly commanding tones of the older woman's voice.

"Yes. You really must thank him as he deserves as soon as you are able to see him! I don't know what I should have done without him! It was he who arranged to have a special sent to meet us at the next station and a motor ambulance to take us out of that wretched hospital within an hour after I had regained consciousness. He would not believe for a moment what the doctors told us, and he has been so devoted."

"Has he?" Sallie's own tone was noncommittal. "What did the doctors say?"

You suffered a very severe concussion, Alva, and it was feared that when you did recover consciousness you might not be quite yourself for a time. The words fell slowly from the older woman's lips. The specialist, whom Dr. Quarters called in was of the opinion that your memory might be impaired and you would not be able at first to recognize any of us. Dear child, if you were my own instead of a stepdaughter my fears could not have been greater."

So that was what these two were trying to put over! Sallie raised her hand to her swimming head.

"Maybe that doctor had the right dope," she murmured. "I don't seem to remember any of this line you're giving me."

"Of course not, Alva, you have only just awakened up. You know!" The woman rose. "I will send Miss Tidmarsh to you now, for you must rest."

She bent, kissed the girl's forehead and turning, left the room. Clenching her fists and catching her lower lip sharply between her teeth she waited until the momentary weakness passed and her vision cleared, then rising she tottered over to the dressing table to have a closer look at Cousin Wheeler.

It was no reassuring. He was younger than she had thought, under thirty maybe, but his forehead sloped straight back to his thin, slick hair, the close-set eyes did not meet one squarely and the long nose drooped over a sickly little mustache that gave him a sneer. What there was of his chin slid down into his collar and although that was perfectly fitting and the pear-shaped dull pin—a pearl, she guessed—certainly looked the goods in his tie, Sallie shrugged as she replaced the photograph upon the dressing table.

She was turning away when her own reflection in the triple mirror met her gaze and she paused with a little catch in her breath. She had never seen quite so much of herself from all sides at once and that elegant lacy gown didn't help to hide her scrawliness, but that wasn't what mattered; it was the drawn, ghostly face more pointed than ever and the big round rings around her dull, sunken eyes. Why, even Ma Brennan would hardly know her!

Moving slowly over to the window she drew the blue side-drapery across her breast and then parted the filmy curtains to peer outward and down. Sunlight striking on the glass of a passing motor whined sharply up into her eyes but when it passed she saw a broad avenue not so far below her with a double stream of wonderful cars and big green buses rolling along though only a subdued rumble reached her ears. On the opposite side was a smooth, tree-lined walk with sanded stone benches in a row and a low wall behind them while beyond that again there stretched what seemed to be a great park with a soft-looking dirt road and little winding paths between masses of trees just getting feathery with buds.

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

Did you ever know how big cities make the hydrant water fit for you to drink? That's what S.S.S. does to the blood in your own blood-pipes. It Increases your Red Blood Cells. That's the sure way! S.S.S. makes it fit to circulate. S.S.S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood-purifiers known. You don't have to use some new and treatment that is mere guesswork, you don't have to smear things on your face in a vain effort to get rid of eruptions. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S.S.S. builds new blood cells. This is why S.S.S. routs out of your system the impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. That's why S.S.S. has done such wonderful work in freeing thousands from the scourge of rheumatism. S.S.S. is also a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pep." S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Price does not indicate intrinsic worth. But an individual maker's cost of production.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

The difference in price simply shows that it cost one maker more to make this car than the other. Judging value on price, this is folly. Price class is a myth.

Where the Difference Comes in

Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

This is based on a total engineering cost of $500,000 a year, which is the least on which any manufacturer can maintain an efficient engineering department.

Thus a manufacturer producing but 20,000 cars a year must add $25 per car for engineering, or eight times as much as Studebaker.

Other fixed overheads have been reduced proportionately. And these influence Studebaker prices.

A set of body dies costs $100,000. It will produce many thousand sets of body stampings, each one as perfect as though there were only a dozen made.

By building 50,000 bodies from a single set of dies, Studebaker reduces the die cost per body to only $2.00.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

You do not know dear little Marquise, how wonderful it seems to be home again, to be among my own possessions; to open this little drawer where the utmost secrets of my heart are laid, to know that no one in all the world except you has access to them.

Jack's mother was quite curious about this dear old desk and wanted to know if I had found the secret drawer that she always knew was somewhere enclosed within it.

I evaded the answer for I knew that if I told her I had found it, if she ever visited us, she would be to look into it and you and I could never allow that.

I wonder if your kingly lover had a mother, little Marquise. I wonder if you had trouble with trying to make yourself agreeable to her.

I have been down to visit Jack's mother and for his sake I tried to do my very best, but oh, it was so hard, little Marquise. For at least twenty-five years, if not longer, Mrs. Prescott Sr., has been buried in her ancestral home in a little New England town and most of that time, like the Chinese, she has devoted herself to her ancestors. I guess, for she certainly talked very little about anything else.

This was particularly obnoxious to me and I belong to him. He is the fact that my darling baby, little Jack, had no ancestors to speak of.

Of course I knew that little Jack's mother is that brilliant Paula Perler and I strongly suspect that his father is Jack's best friend, Sydney Carton.

You may think it very strange that knowing this I still think that Sydney Carton is one of the best men I know. Why I should feel this way about him I do not know, for I have only seen him once, except at the time he stayed a week at my father's on the occasion of my marriage.

But, since I have seen Paula, I have a feeling that she bears me ill will. Indeed, she spoke in the most glowing terms of him, altho I have a feeling that she does not want to marry him now.

Dear old Jack met me at the sta-laughter of romantic love, but when one can flout the passion of one's lover in the eyes of the world, and say "He is mine. He belongs to me and I belong to him. He is my husband and I am his wife," there can be no perfect happiness.

I believe neither you nor any other woman who has had to love in secret can ever know the joy and the bliss that I knew when I came home to my husband yesterday.

"Price Class"

the mysterious stranger in the motor industry

Does a difference in price indicate a difference in quality? Why is one car priced 25% to 50% higher than another of the same quality? The 4 questions that a buyer should ask when considering any car.

HERE are facts based on world's engineering authority. If you have any intention of buying an automobile, you are urged to read them.

No "Price Class"

There are only two kinds of automobiles today. Economically produced cars which give you more for your money. And cars which are not, and give you less.

Price does not indicate intrinsic worth. But an individual maker's cost of production.

Hence two cars may show a price difference of $400 to $1,200 and more. And be of the same quality.

The difference in price simply shows that it cost one maker more to make this car than the other. Judging value on price, this is folly. Price class is a myth.

Where the Difference Comes in

Studebaker, producing 150,000 cars yearly, has reduced engineering cost to $3.33 per car.

This is based on a total engineering cost of $500,000 a year, which is the least on which any manufacturer can maintain an efficient engineering department.

Thus a manufacturer producing but 20,000 cars a year must add $25 per car for engineering, or eight times as much as Studebaker.

Other fixed overheads have been reduced proportionately. And these influence Studebaker prices.

A set of body dies costs $100,000. It will produce many thousand sets of body stampings, each one as perfect as though there were only a dozen made.

By building 50,000 bodies from a single set of dies, Studebaker reduces the die cost per body to only $2.00.

The average small manufacturer whose volume will enable him to build only 5,000 bodies from a set of dies in the same time in which Studebaker builds 50,000 has to charge each body $20 for die cost. The difference of $18 is in the price but not in the body. The customer pays it but he gets nothing tangible for it. It is one of the penalties of uneconomical manufacture.

Thus a car priced at $1,200 to $1,400 can be sold as low as $1045 when produced economically in quantity, ings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 hand and machine operations are performed in the manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is great opportunity for economy and savings. 15% premium is paid on many steels to insure Studebaker specifications instead of "commercial" run used in cars many times Studebaker price.

No finer car can be built than the Studebaker of today. Only famous foreign cars and the most costly of American cars, compare.

See a Studebaker—Then Decide

Buy no car until you've seen a Studebaker. Go over it, point for point. Consult any unbiased expert. Ask your banker. And you will own a Studebaker.

Get an Answer to These 4 Questions Before Buying Any Car

1—Is this an assembled car? Or "partly" assembled. Insist on this answer. Assembled cars pay a profit to from 75 to 100 parts makers alone.

2—What sort of bearings? Studebakers are Timken-equipped. Everlasting smoothness and quiet performance result.

3—How many cars a year does this maker produce? Small productions mean either a higher price or cheaper car.

4—What sort of upholstery? Studebaker closed models are done in Chase Mohair, the finest material for this purpose known. Open models are upholstered in genuine leather.

ALPACA Heads the List of Spring Fabrics Choosing Your Gloves to Suit Your Costume

THE very word alpaca was once significant of shabby thrift. If a novelist or playwright wanted to present a parsimonious or impoverished old gentleman, he stipulated that he wore an alpaca coat—a little too short in the sleeves and very shiny or worn at the elbows. The poor parson's wife or the shabby genteel country woman wore a black alpaca frock.

If the present vogue for alpaca does nothing else it will wipe away this association that has long clung to this material. For alpaca has risen to the first rank of smart fabrics.

Paris Sponsors It.

In France it had its origin and it is the French dressmakers who are its most enthusiastic users. Premet, Patou, Molyneux, are among those who have made much of it. There are, of course, alpaca and alpaca.

ly to be of some sort of crepe—possibly satin crepe. The stiff, heavier white satins are used to make evening gowns, often with the new flare below the knees.

Printed and Plaided. Printed crepes and plaid georgettes, brocaded chiffons, figured georgettes, lace in cream, black or white, and satins of all sorts are chosen for afternoon and evening frocks.

Taffetas could hardly hope for a large following in a season when the alhoute is what it is at present. However, so long as the period frock has any adherence, and it still does for young girls' evening frocks and bridesmaids' taffetas have been used in Paris and these like the plain sort are of finest quality.

Next Week: The Trend in the New Blouses.

Chiffon frock printed in bright-colored stripes.

but seemingly any and all of them are in fashion. Premet has used a gray mixed alpaca, Patou uses plaids in this material. There is a new alpaca of silk and wool that shows an irregular black and white mixture, and sometimes these alpaca mixtures and plaids are made of mixtures of wool and artificial silks. The alpaca family is a rather large one and the family resemblance is not always marked. But the family name—alpaca—seems to open the doors of fashion to them all.

Here and there behind the counters where new spring fabrics are laid you will find salesmen who have no good words to say for any of the alpacas. "It's the worst material I could sell," said one in an undertone, reluctantly displaying some black silk alpaca. "You can have it if you like—but you'll find that it mutes and creases dreadfully."

Flannel Again.

Flannel is another substantial old fabric that has been revived of late and that takes a prominent place this spring. The woman who perhaps finds the sober and substantial tweed mixture a little too tame for her tailored suit, turns to some of the checked, striped and plaided flannels.

Basket weaves and homespuns have been used for separate wraps. The beach cape of white homespun came into prominence at Palm Beach and though there is not much chance of its becoming over popular this spring and summer, it has an assured place in the wardrobe of the well dressed woman.

Fine reps, often in plaids, are favored and this material is often chosen in navy blue.

For the nonce white satin seems to be in great demand. Once white satin seemed hardly suitable for anything but the wedding gown. Now the wedding gown is more like-

Frock, at right, of red and black silk with plaided tunic opened in front over strait slip buttoned from neck to hem. Alpaca is the fabric for frock at left. The flare below the knees is formed by godets and outlined with gold stitching, and there is a similar flare in the sleeves. In the center is a black and pink printed foulard frock.

Cape coat and frock of navy blue reps trimmed with Havane brown and moss green crepe de chine at right. At left, Renée's afternoon frock of golden brown mouseline de soie embroidered in fine braid. There is a long coat of crepe de chine in the same shade. Buttons are placed close to gather down the front and at the side seams. The collar is soft.

THE tailored suit with its boyish lines, and its closely fitting sleeves demands either a very short glove or a glove with a cuff that is worn over the cuff of the suit. You can now buy short one-finger gloves, and this type of glove to wash to the skin has already become popular. It is so short as not to interfere with the tight suit sleeve.

You may prefer a short slip-on glove. If so you may find this in white, black or various shades of tan or gray. These may be had in washable skins. In the stores they are usually called "Bunitz."

If a fashion set at Palm Beach persists at other watering resorts this summer, you may see short white gloves worn as an accessory of bathing costumes, either with a sleeveless suit or the suit, much newer and more extreme from the present point of view, that has sleeves extending to the wrist.

Although long gloves have been worn with short sleeved and sleeveless gowns to a considerable extent, the French fashion prevails at some of the Southern resorts of wearing the very short glove with a sleeveless gown. This fashion has been especially favored by smart women because of the fad for appearing in the evening with white hands and deeply tanned arms. This contrasting effect is so much admired that women have been known to go so far as to intensify the whiteness of their hands and the even brown of their arms with cosmetics.

TIE AND HANDKERCHIEF TO MATCH.

In some of the new sport frocks the tie matches the handkerchief. Both are of crepe de chine, usually, in some bright color contrasting or harmonizing with the color of the frock.

Sometimes both tie and handkerchief are embroidered with the wearer's initials and sometimes a Chinese design is embroidered on each. The handkerchief in such a combination of course, has a small pocket for its home, sometimes on the bodice, sometimes on the skirt.

MAH JONG HANDLES.

Parasols and umbrellas have specialized on decorative handles so much within the last few years that it would seem to be difficult to find anything really new as a model. But, of course, there is mah jong, which has made an impression on every detail of dress. Mah jong handles are of bone or composition, printed with the conventional characters in the conventional colors, and they are extremely attractive.

Leisure sports model with bodice of natural kasha. There is a skirt of red kasha in a broad plaid.

FACTS OF FASHION

NEW RIBBONS

NARROW ribbons with a little silk drawstring at one side may be had in interesting stripes and sometimes with scalloped edges. By means of the drawstring the ribbon may be transformed into little ruffles and rosettes to be used in trimming hats, frocks or dainty accessories.

Ribbon in cartridge-belt effect is used on frocks and hats and it is possible now to buy narrow ribbon attached to a foundation in this manner.

Narrow ribbons in "plissée" effect are shown by some of the shops. At either side the ribbon is slightly gathered into a straight satin cording at the edges.

Plaid and Roman striped ribbons are everywhere in evidence, both sorts being used extensively in trimming hats. They are also used to make girdles and in extra widths are used to make entire blouses and frocks. There are turbans entirely made of brilliant plaid ribbons, being finished with a bow at one side of the same material.

Metallic ribbons are important. There are metal-shot crinkled ribbons, metallic brocades and ribbons showing an edge of metallic threads.

Ribbons of new and unusual colors have appeared for spring, strange, dull tones of green and brown being most interesting.

Next Week: Directorate Details.

FUR ON PARASOLS.

A striking parasol carried at one of the Southern resorts has a big cat's face practically covering it. The cat's face is made of white fur—cat's fur probably, at that. There are yellow eyes of glass and there are long, waving whiskers of black. The cat wears a delightful expression that would make the parasol's owner wish to have a little page walk before her with the parasol opened and trust to luck to escape freckles and sunstroke.

They Do Say the Mother of the New Countess of Northesk Has Made a British Estate of Her Buffalo Boarding House, Serves Tea (At Any Hour) and Has Hired a Genealogist

"GOOD evening, Mr. Simpkins. I'm so glad to see you. Won't you come in and have some—er—some TEA?"

The scene is Buffalo, N. Y. The "immediate foreground" is the "Old English" estate of the speaker, Mrs. Albert W. Starke, ex-proprietress of a humble rooming house, but nowadays mother-in-law of the young Earl of Northesk. Mrs. Starke's tentative guest is a reporter.

And the hour is half past eight—P. M., not A. M.!

Whether the reporter, seeking news, not refreshment, accepted Mrs. Starke's cordial invitation to partake of triple English brew—at night—is not recorded. But the episode casts light on her recent abrupt change of social tone, and explains why she is digging up a family tree, roots and all.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that Mrs. Starke is the mother of Jessica Brown, once an agile Broadway dancer, but now the new Countess of Northesk. Over in snowy St. Moritz the Countess and her boyish British Earl are having a de luxe honeymoon. But their visit to Mrs. Starke in Buffalo before they sailed left its mark—a mark as wide as the broadest "a" in Mayfair.

Mrs. Starke, say her neighbors, is not

Near-English Fountain in the Semi-British Garden of "Ma" Starke's Anglicized Buffalo Home, Where the Earl of Northesk was "Received" by His Cordial Mother-in-Law.

Chicago, came East to visit "Ma." With her changed viewpoint, Mrs. Starke had also changed her dwelling. She had deserted the rooming-house for an "old family mansion" and remodeled it into suites of "semi-studio" apartments.

Surrounded by semi-English hedges and semi-British terraces, the Earl was "received" by "Ma" when he and Jessica visited Mrs. Starke to get her blessing upon their union. Bride and bridegroom lingered just long enough in Buffalo to enable the nobleman to learn that "Hot dog" was the native equivalent of "Ripping!" Then the joyful couple sped overseas to kill time at the swaggy Swiss resorts.

"Ma" Starke didn't accompany them. She stayed behind, but she didn't "stay put."

Not content with a near-English fountain in an almost-British garden, and a son-in-law of copper-riveted (if not exactly gold-lined) ancestry, Mrs. Starke began to ponder the matter of her own family tree.

So Mrs. Starke engaged a genealogist, several of her acquaintances declared, to trace her husband's ancestry and her own. The results are reported satisfactory—so far—with prospects of a link being forged between the Vancouver Starokes and those of Upper Tooting.

The task of tracing anyone named Starke or Brown back to a lofty British origin may be difficult, for they are far from unusual names. It may take time and money. But the expense is plainly the last thing which "Ma" Starke wants to spare. She has been raising a considerable sum of cash recently and she was also granted a $10,000 mortgage on her property.

Buffalo, speculating whether this might be for ancestral researches or the Mrs. Starke they used to know when she moved from Vancouver to Buffalo and started in, with no money, fuss and few Sunday feathers, as an unpretentious rooming house proprietress. In those days, she and her daughter, "that spindle-shanked girl with the long legs," were devoid of any vivid society aspirations.

Jessica went to high school and longed for a footlight career, while "Ma" ran her prnell through a column of figures indicating what the second floor front and the third floor back were bringing in the way of currency.

Jessica Brown couldn't see Delaware avenue as a step to stage success. So she pulled up stakes, "did time" in musical comedy on "the road," and—burst upon New York's Great Night Way with a bang.

Lord and Lady Northesk, in Winter Costumes, Honeymooning at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

She became a sensation.

Her American hit was so pronounced that a British producer signed her up for London. There she scored just as heavily as she had done "back home."

In "The Midnight Revels" at the Grafton Galleries one of the smart Piccadilly resorts, the wil-lowy Jessica made a rival English beauties look overfed and underspeedy.

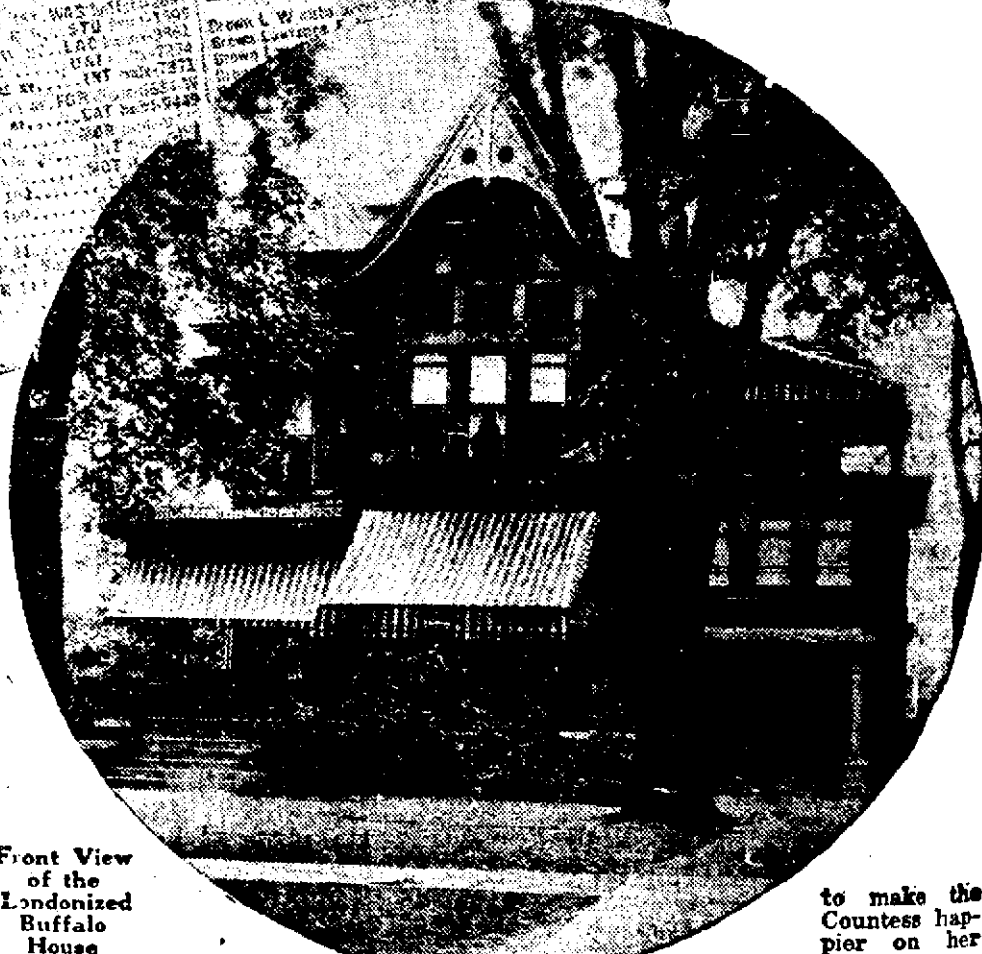

At least, so thought David Ludovic George Hopetoun, eleventh Earl of Northesk, of the House of Carnegie. He had wandered aimlessly into the Galleries to banish boredom. What he did banish was his peace of mind! For he fell furiously in love with the American girl.

Announcement of their engagement was soon made by the blushing nobleman. Then dramatic things began to happen. The Earl resigned abruptly from the Grenadier Guards, Royal Household Cavalry which attends King George and Queen Mary. Marriage with stage ladies has always been frowned upon by the Guard's. So the Earl took one short cut to matrimony by this step.

But he was still far from the altar. First his mother, the Countess of Northesk, poohpoohed the betrothal. "Ridiculous! Absurd!" she exclaimed. Colonel Douglas Carnegie, the Earl's uncle, also denied the report.

Jessica, discreetly silent, sailed for "the States." While she was in mid-ocean, American reporters exhumed the fact that she had already been married to Cyril De Witt Reinhard, an electrical engineer and naval contractor. "Divorced him in 1918," wireless Jessica to New York. She had also been reported engaged to a Spanish nobleman.

At the pier she was met by an unidentified young man, who announced: "Miss Brown is going to marry ME." But she didn't. Her devoted Earl followed her to America. Asked whether he wasn't largely dependent upon his mother for his future income, he smilingly admitted that he wasn't "so very rich."

Rich, poor or "well-to-do," he was royally welcomed at the Starke residence when he and Jessica, after wedding in certain," remarked one of the seven Oldest Inhabitants. "The Earl's home, Ethie House, in England, is haunted. Two spectres continually roam through its rooms."

"Ma" Starke has a perfect right to turn her house into a British castle; go in for twenty-four hour tea-parties, and trace her lineage to the Tudors. But there's one heirloom she can't beg, buy, borrow or steal. That's a ghost. THEY have to be inherited!

DEMOCRATS PLAN GET-TOGETHER

Fifth District Leaders Predict Victory Over Republicans

CONFERENCE AT DEFIANCE

Putnam-Co Has Largest Delegation; April 10 Is The Date

OTTAWA — Democrats of the fifth congressional district will elect their candidate for congressman this year and thereby win back the laurels lost two years ago when C. J. Thompson, of defiance, was elected by the Republicans.

This prediction was made Saturday by Judge H. M. Summers, of Ottawa, chairman of the Putnam-co central committee, who said that every indication pointed to Democratic success.

We will have efficient men in the race and men whose integrity and ability are unquestioned and whose democracy is known to every voter," Judge Summers declared.

To this end, a "Get-Together" meeting will be held on April 10 in defiance, at which time speakers of statewide prominence will discuss the merits of the party and rally the voters to the Democratic cause.

Putnam-co, which cast the largest vote in the district for Governor Donahay in 1922, will have the largest number of delegates in the meeting. The counties making up the district and the delegates to which they are entitled, are:

Defiance, 19; Putnam, 12; Henry, 16; Bowling, 11; Putnam, 21; Van Wert, and Williams, 18.

DEATH SUMMONS DR. J. G. PACE

Hospital Superintendent Here Stricken In Sayre, Pa.

The death of Dr. Jerome Grant Pace, 57, superintendent of the district tuberculosis hospital, southwest of Lima, occurred Wednesday night in Sayre, Pa., following an illness from a complication of diseases, superinduced by gall stones.

He was subjected to an operation a year ago. He went to Sayre, Pa., two weeks ago when he became ill.

Dr. Pace was born in Wyoming, Pa. He came to Lima last October from Woodmen, Col., and since his arrival had made great strides in the matter of equipment and service to tubercular patients.

He had associated with him, his son, Dr. Jerome Grant Pace, Jr., who has been appointed temporarily to fill the position. It is expected that Dr. Pace will be named permanently for the superintendency and will continue the wonderful work, according to physicians, that his father has begun at the district tuberculosis hospital.

A widow, the son with whom he was associated at the hospital and a daughter, Mrs. E. T. Leas of Cleveland, survive, with one grandchild.

Funeral services were held Friday in Wyoming, Pa., at the former home of his mother, now dead. Members of the Masonic order, with which he was affiliated, conducted the burial ritual over the body of the deceased brother.

Interment was made in a cemetery nearby, beside the grave of his mother.

The widow and her son, Dr. Jerome Grant Pace, Jr., who were with him when the end came, have returned from Pennsylvania, where they were called on the sad mission of death.

JAIL DOORS YAWN AFTER FRIEND WITHDRAWS BOND TO INSURE OWN FREEDOM

Jail stared Pete Oper, 1303 Norcal-av in the face Saturday when Sam Dogostino, Italian, 112 E. Fourth-st., his bondsman was forced to surrender him.

Oper is under indictment along with Louis Vallis, for receiving stolen wine.

Dogostino, nabbed by prohibition officers, wanted his property clear to assist in getting himself and wife, Mary, out of jail. So he told Pete to make other arrangements.

"Get a new bondsman or go to jail," Judge Becker ruled when informed of Oper's predicament.

Hurry up calls over the phone sent several south side residents armed with much kale to the county jail to go Oper's security for $500. Oper and Vallis are scheduled to stand trial Wednesday on the wine

I First Compounded This Remedy For My Own Neighbors

Their praise of this newer form of iron has spread so rapidly that now, after nine years, over 4,000,000 people use it annually.

Years ago I began to wonder at the great number of my own friends and neighbors who were always ailing, complaining and doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better. Both working men and their wives were frequently all tired out in the evening, and a great many were weak, nervous and run-down. One had pains in the back and thought he had kidney trouble. Another had pains around the heart, palpitations and dizziness, and was sure he was suffering from heart disease. Still others had severe headaches, floating spots before the eyes, tender spots along the spine and a great variety of alarming symptoms.

For years I made a special study of this condition, consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. An immense number of investigations by physicians all over the country showed that 3 people out of every four you meet lack 100% iron in their blood. Lack of iron in the blood is the greatest of all debilitating weaknesses. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron, nothing you eat does you any good. Your heart, lungs and kidneys and all your vital organs get their nourishment from the blood stream, and when the blood lacks iron and is thin, pale and watery, you may suffer from the symptoms of a great number of diseases when the real and true cause of all your trouble is a lack of iron in the blood.

In the old days people often took metallic iron, which some physicians claim is not absorbed at all. In compounding Nuxated Iron I use the newer form of iron, which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Unlike the older forms of iron, it will not irritate the teeth nor disturb the stomach, and it is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood. It is the people whose blood is rich in iron who possess great strength, force and energy. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test:

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two 5-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks—then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. An astonishing number of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, have greatly improved their health and increased their strength, energy and endurance simply by taking this newer form of iron.

Pa Gets an Earful
The telephone in a well-known surgeon's office rang. When the doctor answered, the voice at the end of the line inquired "Who is this?"

The doctor, recognizing the voice of his seven-year-old son, replied "The smartest man in the world."

"I beg your pardon," said the boy. "I have the wrong number."

Of course American in the United States. You can tell it by the way they drive.

Ain't Nature Grand?
FIRST BROADWAY—A young man went to a party. Some women said "I beg your pardon," said the boy. "I have the wrong number."

For Example
The first time I saw a woman in a dress like that, I thought she was a fool.

And when I saw a man in a suit like that, I thought he was a fool.

What a waste of money! I don't know how many times I have seen a man in a suit like that, and I don't know how many times I have seen a woman in a dress like that.

To the man in the suit, I say: "You are a fool." To the woman in the dress, I say: "You are a fool."

No Skill Required
Clerk—Heaven, man, you are taking four-fifths of my damages!

Lawyer—Well, I turn him the skill, the eloquence and the needs of legal learning of the case.

Client—Yes, but I furnished the case itself.

Lawyer—Bosh! Anybody could fall down a coal hole.

Capitalizing a Misfortune
A clerk in a retail clothing store stayed out so late at night that he felt compelled to snatch naps during store hours.

Being a relative of a member of the firm was all that saved him from being fired.

The manager, becoming exasperated, enlisted the aid of one of his assistants. The next day, the lethargic clerk found himself in the pajama department. On the counter before him was a sign which read:

"Our pajamas are of such superior quality that even the man who sells them can't keep awake."

It is better to put your whole soul into what you are doing than to put your foot in it.

Got His Dates Mixed

Clerk—Ha, ha! The joke's on him. He wasn't supposed to call up until tomorrow.

Washington is a tough place just now for the kind of bird who is always wondering whether there was anything personal in that last remark.

THOSE TERRIBLE NEIGHBORS!

SOMEBODY FORGOT HIS CUE!
It was a sleepy sort of day, the class was about half the usual size and the "Prof" was calling the roll in a half-absent manner. To each name someone had answered "here" until the name of Smith was called. Silence reigned for a moment only to be broken by the instructor's voice.

"My word! Haven't Mr. Smith any friends here?"

The first time I saw a woman in a dress like that, I thought she was a fool.

And when I saw a man in a suit like that, I thought he was a fool.

What a waste of money! I don't know how many times I have seen a man in a suit like that, and I don't know how many times I have seen a woman in a dress like that.

To the man in the suit, I say: "You are a fool." To the woman in the dress, I say: "You are a fool."

It is better to put your whole soul into what you are doing than to put your foot in it.

Got His Dates Mixed
Boss—Sir, what does this mean? Someone just called up and said that you were sick and could not come to work today.

Clerk—Ha, ha! The joke's on him. He wasn't supposed to call up until tomorrow.

Washington is a tough place just now for the kind of bird who is always wondering whether there was anything personal in that last remark.

THOSE TERRIBLE NEIGHBORS!
"How do you like your new neighbors?"

"Not at all. The fellow on the left never shovels his sidewalk and let us wade thru the snow. And the one on the right clears his so neatly after every snowfall that my wife looks at me poisonously."

SOMEBODY FORGOT HIS CUE!
It was a sleepy sort of day, the class was about half the usual size and the "Prof" was calling the roll in a half-absent manner. To each name someone had answered "here" until the name of Smith was called. Silence reigned for a moment only to be broken by the instructor's voice.

"My word! Haven't Mr. Smith any friends here?"

SHELTERING THE FRIENDLESS
"Why don't you get rid of that no good hound, Charley?"

"I've kept him for sentimental reasons—my wife hates him."

No doubt it is true that opposites attract. Most of the hard cash is in soft hands.

While the church row continues doubtless the devil will maintain his neivulent neutrality.

OH, HEARTLESS DAD!
DAUGHTER—Daddy, dear, can I have $20 to buy you a birthday present?

PARSIMONIOUS POP. No. Jane I think I'd rather have the money.

The toothless savagery is said to be about to appear. But that it is not help much.

Present company included much but talk but this is about all for conditions.

You never can tell. The fellow who is me is a little bit of a state of mind.

Liver Trouble Now

Known as Cause of Premature Old Age

Diseases of heart, kidneys, blood vessels due to body poisons

Medical science knows that poisons waste in our bodies would actually cause death in a few days if not eliminated by Nature's processes. Because it destroys these deadly poisons, the liver is our most important organ—the body's wonderful purifier.

Science now understands how the liver prevents the formation of body poisons that cause diseases of the heart, kidneys, blood vessels, and are chiefly responsible for premature old age.

When the liver becomes weak, the poisons are sucked up by the blood and health is broken down. Guided by this knowledge, medical science has found the only way to help the liver create the purifying bile which out which no human can live. Physicians know that the liver cannot be regulated by drugs, but safe Nature substance has been discovered which will at once increase the vital bile supply. The discovery is purified ox gall.

Get from your druggist a package of Dioxol. Each tablet contains ten drops of purified ox gall. In 24 hours the poison toxins will be removed. Your liver will be regulated. Blood purification will begin. Sallow skin will clear. You will feel so much better you will know you have found the cause of your ill health. Dioxol tablets are harmless, tasteless and cost less than two cents each.
